

Union Shop Ruling For Railroads Stirs Furor In Congress

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON — (AP) — A government board's approval of the Union Shop for a million rail workers gave labor unions a lever today to pry the same compulsory arrangement out of other industries.

Some labor leaders said privately they expect yesterday's railroad industry ruling will cause a furor in Congress.

They said it is bound to encourage unions to seek the Union Shop more insistently than ever, with an inevitable increase in labor strikes. It was widely predicted more and more unions will try to get their disputes before government boards in hopes of winning the Union Shop.

Decision Not Binding
A three-man panel headed by David L. Cole, Paterson, N. J., arbitrator, recommended that the railroads grant the Union Shop and dues check-off provisions to 17 unions representing a million-odd non-operating rail workers.

It was the first time the government, or a government board, had ever recommended in favor of the Union Shop on any such scope. The Union Shop requires all workers in a bargaining unit to hold union membership and pay dues.

"This is going to head us into a lot of trouble," a prominent government official told this reporter. He asked not to be named.

Neither the railroads nor the rail unions would say immediately whether they would accept or reject the board's recommendation, which is not binding, but it was obvious the unions would grab it, since it was what they asked.

Ban Repealed
The Railroad Emergency Board reported to President Truman that Congress paved the way for the Union Shop on the railroads a year ago by repealing a specific ban against it.

"Viewed in fair perspective and in light of the national policies determined by Congress," the board said, "we find no sound or substantial basis for withholding the Union Shop and check-off from these seventeen (rail labor) organizations any longer."

The board went on to say that a government survey showed that more than 70 percent of workers covered by labor contracts now have the Union Shop.

Cleanup Authority Asked By President Faces Rough Going

By B. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman's request for far-reaching investigative powers for Newbold Morris, his government cleanup prosecutor, today faced prospects of rough going on Capitol Hill.

Key lawmakers were quick to term it "unprecedented" and "a complete departure from established practice."

Legal Snags Certain
So far as could be determined, Congress was being asked for the first time to cloak an individual in the executive branch with virtually unlimited subpoena powers, and the tremendous added authority to grant witnesses immunity from prosecution.

The sweeping proposal, certain to run into Congressional snags, states in effect:

Where it is "necessary to the public interest," witnesses may not be excused from testifying or producing records on grounds of self-incrimination and subjection to possible criminal prosecution. But when compelled to testify, after claiming constitutional privileges against self-incrimination, the witness shall not be prosecuted.

No Precedent
This is a power never exercised by any committee of Congress, as far as could be determined. The only power to enforce testimony used by Congressional committees is the power to cite a witness for contempt and this is subject to approval by the whole House or Senate.

Similarly, the power to subpoena witnesses and documents outside as well as inside the government was considered somewhat unusual in the present case.

It was said, after a quick check, that not even in the Teapot Dome hearings of the 1920s did Senate staff investigators have the power to subpoena outside the government.

Mr. Truman told his news conference that he did not know if the executive branch of government had ever sought such powers before, but said he had Attorney General McGrath's full backing.

Heretofore, Congress has granted the power to subpoena witnesses and documents only to its own committees, and to certain executive agencies such as the Federal Trade Commission, the Immigration Service and Federal Power Commission.

Big Guns Pound Reds In Korea

By GEORGE A. MCARTHUR
SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — Allied big guns poured a withering barrage of shells into Communist positions in eastern Korea today.

High explosive and fragmentation shells rained down on some Red strongpoints for more than an hour. A murderous 15-minute barrage battered Red positions along the Mundung valley, springboard for one of the heaviest Communist attacks in weeks Thursday night.

Allied aircraft were out Friday afternoon after being grounded by storms in the morning. One Red Mig was damaged in a four-minute battle between 19 U. S. Sabre jets and 30 Communist jets over northwest Korea, the Fifth Air Force said.

The U. S. Eighth Army said two companies of Reds spearheaded Thursday night's attack. They stormed down the Mundung valley, with another 1,000 right behind.

An Allied officer said the Red attack was designed to drive a wedge through the main U. N. lines. Allied fighting men stopped it cold in a 49-minute battle, much of it at close quarters.

King George VI Taken To Final Resting Place

(By The Associated Press)
WINDSOR, Eng. — (AP) — Britain said farewell to George VI today in a great outpouring of sorrowful grandeur, and buried him here at Windsor with a hymn of triumphant faith.

Elizabeth II, a queen at 25, led the nation's final homage to her father. For 2½ hours she rode in a horse-drawn carriage behind the casket to the dirge of 10 bands, while more than a million Britons, packed tightly along the chill streets of London, bowed in reverence.

Then she entrained for Windsor with the body and saw it laid to rest in a crypt of royalty already holding George III and nine other sovereigns.

Hymn of Victory
The King's mother, Mary, stayed in London with the weight of her 84 years, and waved her farewell from a window of Marlborough house. But the widowed Queen Mother Elizabeth was here with the Princess Margaret to hear the choir sing the hymn she and the new Queen had chosen—a hymn of victory, often sung at Easter:

"The strife is o'er, the battle done;
"Now is the victor's triumph won x x"

The Archbishop of Canterbury voiced the communal Church of England assigns to King and commoner alike:

"Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust, in sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life x x"

A slab of stone had been laid aside in the floor, and the oaken casket was lowered slowly to the side of the body of the King's brother, the First Duke of Kent, killed in a wartime air crash.

Florida Negro In Death House

OCALA, Fla. — (AP) — Walter Lee Irvin is back in the Florida state prison death house today after his second conviction for raping a young white woman.

His lawyers plan a new fight to save him from the electric chair.

A jury of 12 white men late yesterday convicted the 24-year-old Negro of helping three others seize the 17-year-old girl from her former husband July 16, 1949, and raping her.

There was no recommendation for mercy, which made the death sentence mandatory. Circuit Judge Truman G. Futch immediately pronounced the sentence, and Irvin was taken at once to the state prison.

Irvin's lawyers said they will file a motion for a new trial Monday, and if it is denied they again will appeal to have the verdict set aside.

Irvin was the last of the four Negroes who were accused of the crime which set off a series of mob demonstrations, shootings, and burnings of Negro homes in central Florida, and brought about bitter exchanges between Florida officials and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Kefauver And Ike Criticized On Touchy Racial Segregation

(By The Associated Press)
Two of the Presidential sweepstakes runners were under fire today on the touchy question of racial segregation.

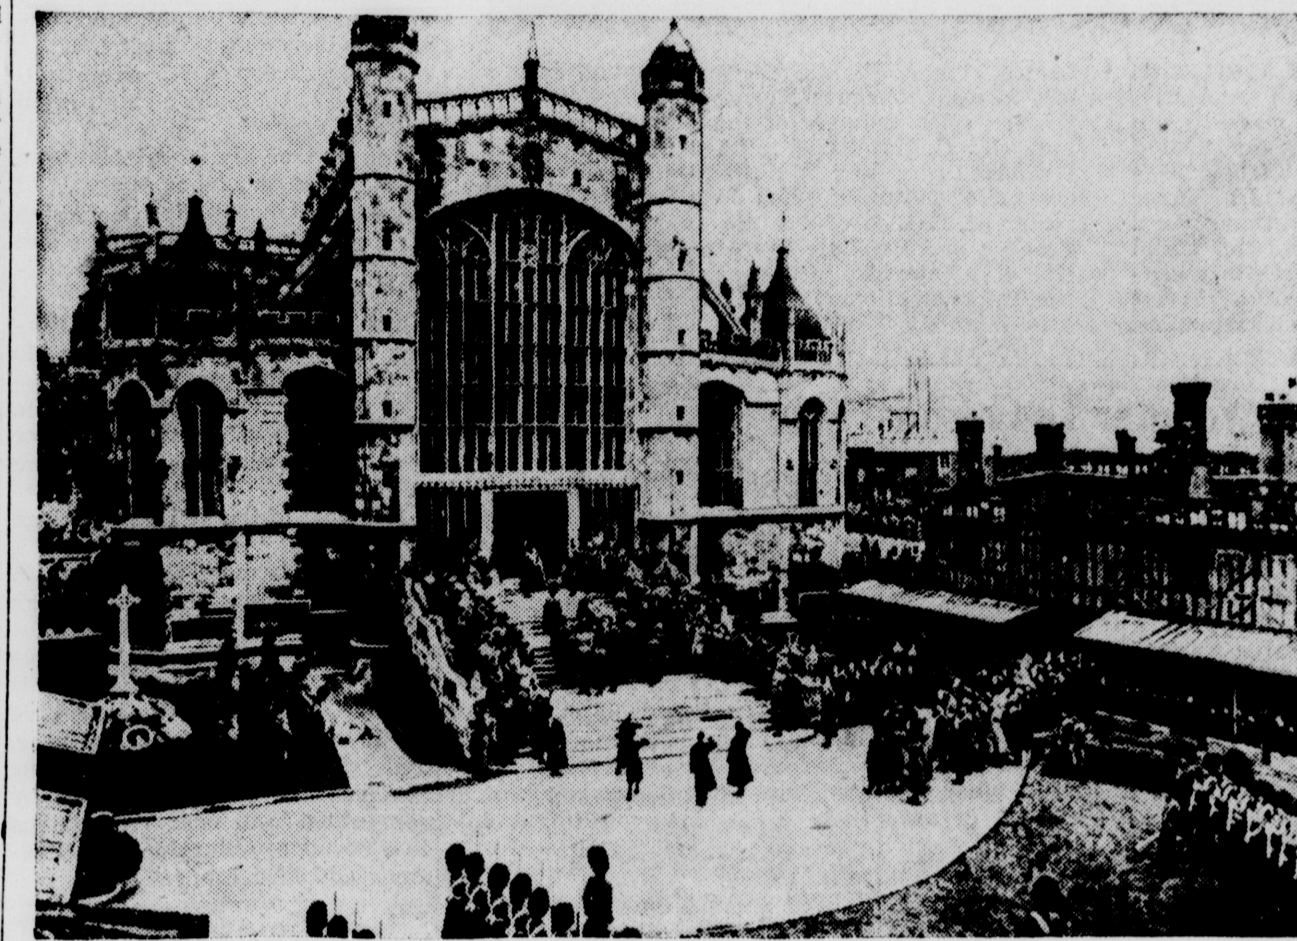

Republican Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Democratic Senator Estes Kefauver both were criticized by a Negro official for what he said was their attitude toward Negroes in the armed services.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington bureau director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said Kefauver once voted for race segregation in the armed forces, and that Eisenhower had told NAACP that Negro soldiers mixed with white "would be at a disadvantage."

Taft Under Fire Too
The Tennessee's office said Kefauver once backed a proposal to let men in uniform decide whether they wanted to serve in segregated or non-segregated units. No one offered any comment for the general, who has said he would not take part in the pre-convention Presidential campaign.

Senator Taft of Ohio was under fire too—for a statement that he

Undersheriff Taken By Death

John E. Frederickson of 321 S. 15th street, undersheriff of Delta county and a resident of Escanaba from his early youth, died at 6:30 last night at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester, Minn. He had been in failing health six months and was seriously ill, hospitalized at Rochester, the past month.

Mr. Frederickson, who was 73, was born in Vervorsborg, Sweden, Dec. 6, 1879. He had lived in Escanaba 61 years.

He was an employee of the Escanaba Power and Traction Co. 32 years and was a veteran operator of the company's street car service in Escanaba and of the trolley line between Escanaba and Gladstone.

He had been Delta County undersheriff since March of 1933. He was a member of the National Sheriffs' Association.

Recently he became a member of St. Joseph's Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mary; seven daughters, Mrs. Frank (Genevieve) Bissonette, Mrs. I. Joseph (Dorothy) Pakis, both of Chicago, Mrs. Walter (Florence) Newman, Mrs. Otto (Queenette) Wagner, Mrs. Leo (Marion) Potvin, all of Escanaba, Emma and Lillian, at home; two sons, John and Harold, Escanaba; ten grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; and one sister, Mrs. Frank Hemes, Escanaba.

The body will be taken to the Alto Funeral Home, where friends may call beginning Sunday morning at 10. Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 in St. Joseph's Church with Fr. Stephen Schneider, O. F. M., officiating. Burial will be in the Gardens of Rest. The rosary will be recited at the funeral home Sunday evening at 8.

School At Otsego Destroyed By Fire

OTSEGO, Mich. — (AP) — The 14-room Oakwood school here was destroyed by fire early today.

Firemen from nearby Allegan and Plainwell joined with the Otsego department in battling the flames. At 6:30 a. m. only smoking embers remained of the 47-year-old three-story building.

An adjoining school building, a newer structure, was only slightly damaged by smoke and water.

Chester A. Cahn of Franklin was named a member of the Michigan Employment Security Commission for a term expiring Jan. 8, 1956.

Dr. T. G. Jacobs of Iron Mountain was named to the State Board of Dentistry for a term expiring Dec. 31, 1958.

Communists Present New Peace Proposals At Session Saturday

By WILLIAM JORDEN
MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — Truce negotiators will hold an important full dress session tomorrow to hear a new Communist proposal for a Korean peace conference.

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator, returned today from Tokyo where he has conferred with two days with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and two high ranking officials from Washington.

Reds Stalling
Staff officers working on prisoner exchange plans reported some slight progress Friday. The session on truce supervision marked time. Col. Don O. Darrow said it looked as though the Reds were stalling until after Saturday's plenary session.

There has been no hints as to what the Communists will suggest in their new plan for a post-armistice peace conference.

Previously the U. N. agreed to talk about the withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea and a final peace settlement, but rejected a Red proposal to discuss other Asian problems related to Korea.

Orders From Washington
Joy conferred in Tokyo with Gen. John E. Hull, Army vice chief of staff, and U. Alexis Johnson, deputy assistant secretary of state for the Far East, as well as with General Ridgway. Hull denied bringing instructions from Washington, but there was speculation that the two officials might be taking a hand in the stalled truce talks.

Col. George W. Hickman said staff officers discussed the new nine-point Communist plan for exchanging prisoners. He said that except for the basic disagreement over voluntary repatriation only disputes over wording separate the two sides now.

The Reds are holding out for the forced repatriation of all prisoners while the U. N. insists on giving each man a choice.

Hickman said U. N. and Red staff officers agreed to study remaining differences overnight and "see if we can't come closer."

Darrow said both sides at the truce supervision session rehearsed arguments over troop rotation and the number of ports of entry to be inspected by neutral teams.

Kingsford Firm Seeks Contract

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A northern Michigan firm is trying to land a defense contract that would put 1,200 men to work, Rep. Bennett (R-Mich.) told a reporter yesterday.

He said officials of the Kingsford Chemical Co. have been in Washington, seeking a contract to build 5,000 semi-cargo 12-ton trailers at their Kingsford, Mich., plant.

"If they get the contract, it would put 1,200 men to work immediately," Bennett said, adding that 3,500 persons now are idle at Kingsford and nearby Iron Mountain because of a partial shutdown of the chemical company plant.

It formerly was operated by the Ford Motor Co. Ford built wooden gliders there during World War II and station wagon bodies afterward.

The Congressman also said he is trying to get the labor department to designate Dickinson county, including Iron Mountain and Kingsford, as an area of critical unemployment.

SAULT STE. MARIE — (AP) — Ten-year-old Kenneth Baily lost both legs here today when he fell beneath the wheels of a freight train near his home in Eckerman, 15 miles west of here.

Kenneth and two companions, Don Brown, 12, and Robert Nedean, 11, had just hopped a car of the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic railroad that was being switched. The three jumped when a switchman appeared and Kenneth fell under the wheels.

Escaper Fights Against Return To Prison At 80

DETROIT — (AP) — An attorney was assigned today to help an 80-year-old man achieve his wish to keep from being sent back to prison to serve out a murder sentence.

White-haired Thomas Hawley pleaded fervently for his freedom before Recorder's Judge Frank G. Schemanske yesterday.

He had jeopardized his freedom by drinking too much wine last November. Police picked him up on a drunk charge. A routine fingerprinting showed he was a fugitive.

Back in 1913 in Illinois he killed a tile setter with whom he worked. He was sentenced to serve 25 years for second degree murder. Six years later he escaped from a farm at Joliet, Ill., prison.

Hawley later came to Detroit and lived a law abiding life. The police didn't bother him — until wine proved his undoing. He worked for years as a metal polisher and when he got too old for factory work he did odd jobs, like washing dishes.

Illinois authorities want him back and Governor Williams has signed an extradition warrant.

But Hawley, limping from an old hip injury, went into court to plead that he be allowed to spend his last days here—in freedom.

He told the judge the killing was in self defense.

"I never wanted to kill the man," he said. "There was a fight. He had the gun. We were struggling. I got the gun away and shot him. I just wanted to scare the fellow."

Nobody Takes Cover

MASON — (AP) — A surprise air raid drill was put on here Thursday to find out how people would act. The fire siren started blasting at two minute intervals. Instead of taking cover, people just stood on street corners. Citizens jammed the sheriff's department switchboard with calls — "Where's the fire?"

Democrats Divided Sharply On Whether Truman Should Run

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON — (AP) — A sampling of Senate opinion indicated today Democrats are sharply divided on whether President Truman should run again.

Truman's statement at a news conference yesterday that he faces a "difficult decision" on this question emphasized the uncertainty within his party about his future plans. He is generally credited with being able to get the nomination if he wants it.

Republicans Confident
Of nine democratic senators interviewed by this reporter, two said the president ought to run again, one called him "the most logical candidate," two said he shouldn't seek the nomination, two predicted he won't run, one said he preferred Senator Russell (D-Ga.) and one wouldn't comment.

Among Republicans, Senator Martin of Pennsylvania said he hopes Truman runs so as to draw the issues sharply in the campaign but Senator Bridges of New Hampshire said it doesn't make much difference—that the Republicans are going to win anyway.

Favored By Liberal
Senators Lehman (D-Lib-NY) and Murray (D-Mont.), who like to be blurred in what they call the "Liberal" wing of the party, said they want the president to run again.

"I am in thorough sympathy with the president's domestic and foreign policies," Lehman said. "He typifies those policies better than any other Democrat. I hope at the same time he takes vigorous steps to wipe out corruption in government and punish the guilty."

Murray said the Democrats can't afford to discard Truman's "experience and background" in such troubled times.

Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) who doesn't go along with the recent action of the midwestern Democratic conference in urging the president to run again, said if he were in Truman's place he would retire at the end of his present term.

Opposition In South
"Although the president is exempted from the restrictions of the two-term amendment to the constitution, if I were in his place I would observe the spirit of that amendment and not run again," Gillette said.

Truman will have been in the White House almost eight years when he completes his present term next January.

Southern Democrats who are opposed to his civil rights program are almost solidly against him.

Minority Group Shows Signs Of Getting Nastier

LANSING — (AP) — House Democrats, who have been acting like sugar wouldn't melt in their mouths, gave signs today of getting nastier.

In the first few weeks of the session, the minority members have been polite, pleasant and strangely agreeable to the Republican majority.

But the appearance of Democratic-sponsored appropriation bills heralded the possible end of the love-feast.

Roll Call For Record
The measures, drawn up with the aid of Controller Robert F. Steadman, a Democratic appointee, would put the governor's $354,000,000 state budget into effect.

This at best is a gesture, since the bills will go to the Ways and Means committee which normally cuts the governor's budget down and introduces its own appropriation bills.

But the move gives the Democrats a chance to call for a record roll call on motions to discharge the committee from further consideration of the bills.

This is just what the Democrats plan, according to Rep. Ed Carey (D-Detroit), minority floor leader.

Pines For Railroads

And he has plans to make it even more uncomfortable for the Republicans by calling for votes on discharging committees on other pet Democratic measures — like fair employment practices legislation, the corporation profits tax and increased unemployment compensation benefits.

Scheduled votes on bills to increase the fine to $100 on railroads which obstruct traffic at a crossing for more than five minutes.

Swanson Freed By Court Jury

A circuit court jury acquitted Arthur Swanson of Cornell, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Clifford South, shortly before noon today.

The jury retired to its rooms at 10 a. m. after being instructed by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson in the possible verdicts they could deliver—guilty as charged, guilty of assault or not guilty of the charge of manslaughter.

Death Followed Fracas
They deliberated nearly two hours on the evidence and testimony presented in the three-day trial in which 24 witnesses were called to the stand by the state and the defense to testify in the case.

The count of manslaughter was brought against Swanson following the death of South on July 16, 1951 after a scuffle between the two men in the South general store and filling station in Cornell.

Testimony during the three-day trial brought out the fact that Swanson entered the store the evening of July 16 to ask South to refrain from selling certain goods to his family. Whereupon, Swanson reported, South struck him, having contended earlier that he was free to make any lawful sale in his place of business that he desired.

A struggle followed, during which South inflicted a number of body injuries on Swanson and so weakened his own condition through over-exertion of a failing heart that he died a short time later while being taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Guilt Pleas Entered
In other actions this morning, the court heard a plea of guilty to the charge of breaking and entering in the night time from Donald Provo, 21, of Milwaukee, entered by the attorney appointed to him by the court, and another from Sam Poquette to the charge of breaking and entering in the night time.

Earlier in the week Francis LaViolette entered a plea of no contest which the court accepted as a plea of guilty to the charge of gross indecency.
Sentencing of these men, and of Douglas W. Schafer, on a guilty plea to the count of unlawfully driving away an automobile; and Arthur King for resisting an officer, was expected to take place this afternoon.

Higher Farm Yields Sought

Greater production than ever before is the goal of farmers co-operating with the Farmers Home Administration this year, Robert B. Abbott, FHA supervisor for Delta and Schoolcraft counties, said today.

To achieve the new record, agency borrowers are planning better balanced crop and livestock programs, analyzing ways to keep family members more fully employed, adopting systems for better land use and more productive or "bigger acres," increasing farm efficiency through proper machinery and equipment, and improving inadequate housing.

In this area, special stress will be put on raising more small grain and feed crops.

The aim of higher yields from present land and labor is a part of the national production campaign for 1952, in which all farmers and agricultural agencies are participating.

The Farmers Home Administration makes supervised loans to qualified applicants, unable to obtain suitable loans elsewhere, to own, improve, or operate farms, or acquire better houses and farm buildings.

"Because of the general shortage of manpower," Abbott pointed out, "numerous farmers are coming to us to learn how they can make fuller use of under-employed labor in their families. Systems followed on many small farms in this locality as well as elsewhere, give employment only part of the year, and should be improved. The problem can often be handled by converting from cash crops alone to a sound combination of livestock and feed crops."

Silver Coins Still O. K. In Assay Tests

PHILADELPHIA—(P)—U. S. dimes, quarters and half-dollars are as "sound and fine" as ever in silver content at least, if not in what they'll bring across the grocery counter.

That was the preliminary decision of a federal assay commission which is conducting a two-day inspection of 32,000 shiny new coins at the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia.

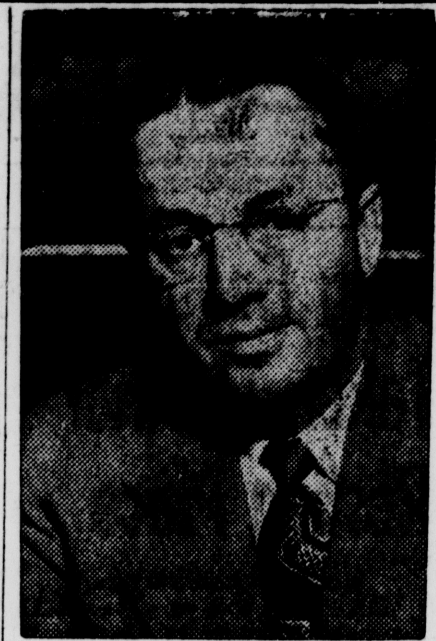

An honorary commission, appointed by the president, has been making the tests on silver content of coins for 160 years. Never have any flaws been uncovered.

The coins are chosen at random from the three federal coinage mints in San Francisco, Denver and Philadelphia.

Newcomer To Grand Marais Spent Many Years In Alaska

GRAND MARAIS—Grand Marais may boast of its rugged climate but it will mean little to Rufus Carrigan who recently arrived here with Mrs. Carrigan and their Malemute, "Kazan," to assume his duties as maintenance technician at the Grand Marais Airport. His background happens to include a great deal of time spent in Alaska.

Mr. Carrigan first went to Dutch Harbor in 1922 as a chief warrant officer in the Navy. After his discharge he returned to Alaska in 1937 with the Coast and Geodetic Survey. In 1938 he received his appointment to the C. A. A. at Arlington, Ore., and again returned to Juneau, Alaska, as a radio operator.

Recalled To Navy
When war broke out in 1941 he was recalled to the Navy as Chief Radioman and then as warrant officer at Dutch Harbor Naval Air Station. From there he was assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Solomon, serving in the South Pacific and North Atlantic, based at Rio de Janeiro.

After his discharge in 1945 he went to Galena, Alaska, as maintenance technician for the C. A. A. Galena is an Indian village on the Yukon River half way between Fairbanks and Nome. During his stay there he experienced a couple of floods which occurred when the Yukon overran its banks before the Army built a dike.

Most of the travelling done up there is by air as there are few roads. The other method of travel is by dog team. The dog team races, held on "Whiskers' Day" are a big yearly event at Anchorage and Fairbanks. On that day any man caught without whiskers is fined. Most of the dogs are huskies with a few Malemutes.

Elks Plan Annual Father-Son Party Monday Evening

The Escanaba Elks will hold their annual Father and Son party at the lodge club rooms on Monday evening, Feb. 25 with Rev. Father James F. McNaughton, assistant pastor of St. Anne's parish, as guest speaker.

The 6:30 dinner will be followed by a short program which will include, besides Fr. McNaughton's address, a pantomime act by Eddie Gravelle.

The banquet committee is urging all fathers to bring their sons of four years and older and ask that reservations be made by calling 399 before Saturday, Feb. 23. Those men who have no sons are asked to team up with a father having more than one son, thus permitting all members to attend the event.

All member Elks are invited even though they bring no children.

The dinner will be served by the wives of members.

Housewives Respond On Tax Returns For Domestic Employees

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Social Security officials are "agreeably surprised" at the response of housewives in filing old age insurance tax returns on the pay of their domestic employees.

Oscar C. Rogge, director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, told the House appropriations committee in testimony made public today that more than 700,000 housewives are making the returns and paying the tax.

"The Birds Eye company is 100 per cent in support of this bond issue for the benefit of our employees and the people of Escanaba," said Juel Lee. "Personally I want to give my support to the Board of Education and the Citizens' Advisory Committee, the members of which have made a long and thorough study of the school problem."

"The Birds Eye does not sell its products in Escanaba, but as an industry in the community, we are keenly interested in civic development. We believe that the need for new schools has been proved beyond question and we endorse the bond issue."

Norton as president of the Veneer Workers Union endorsed the school bond issue following a favorable vote by the Union at the Birds Eye.

"The Veneer Workers Union, local 3158, AFL, has endorsed the school bond issue because union members recognize the need for adequate schools in our democracy. Our expanding child population cannot be ignored. We need new schools and we need them now," Norton said. (Escanaba Daily Press Photo)

Special Deer Season Urged

Special seasons in problem areas in addition to the regular buck season will be the method of implementing authority to manage the deer herd, should that be granted by the Michigan Legislature, Ilo H. Bartlett told the Wolverine Conservation Association here last night. The aim is to take enough deer out of the problem area to bring the herd in line with the food available, he said.

The Stonington area has been selected as one of the areas in the Upper Peninsula to get special treatment, if the Conservation Commission is given the authority and it follows recommendations of the department's game division, Bartlett said. The herd there has built up rapidly in recent years, a definite browse line is showing up on some parts of the peninsula as an indication that numbers of deer are at the point where a tough winter would bring danger of starvation. The area is good cedar country that produces much food both from the cedar and from crops on farms there. It is sufficiently isolated that boundaries of the special hunting area can be clearly defined.

Deer Even Eat Onions

Farmers in the area complain of deer damage. One man claimed that he could no longer grow a vegetable garden, even near the farm home. It is claimed that the deer even eat onions. The claim is made that the deer harvest the outs before the farmer can get to it.

Presently, in the 100 square mile area covered by the Stonington peninsula, the hunters are legally taking three bucks per square mile and it is proposed to attempt to kill off three additional deer per square mile by permit hunting in a special season.

The additional deer kill would come in a special season to follow the regular buck season, with the hunters being drawn by lot. They would be allowed to take either bucks, does or fawns. Hunters who filled a license in the regular season would not be eligible for special permits.

To protect farmers in the area, Howard Eldred district game man, is proposing that the Stonington farmers set up a "Williamston plan". Under such a plan farmers issue permits for hunting on their own lands, require hunters to leave their cars in the farm yard, and require hunters to check out there so the farmer knows who is hunting his land and what they are taking off. In the Lower Peninsula this plan has been the best answer yet worked out to the problem created by the constantly growing number of properties posted with "no hunting" signs.

Presents Comparisons

Bartlett, who has been making a study of deer since 1928, detailed the fluctuations of deer numbers since the period just after the Civil War. He compared conditions in Michigan with those in the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, New York and the Virginias.

He said that the game division attempts to manage the deer range so that it will produce a maximum of food for deer over the years. Now, if given the power, the attempt will be extended to manage the numbers of deer to fit the food producing capacity of the range.

Wolverine President Jim Rouman, who presided at the meeting, announced that a meeting of the organization would be held in the next few weeks to consider Wildlife Week activities, changes in by-laws and the securing of a club headquarters. Program for that meeting will be announced when the date is set.

The Micmac Indians of Nova Scotia number about 3,400, approximately the same as their estimated population in the early 1600's.

Motorist Injured In Auto Collision

John Ratkovich, 25, of Wells, sustained minor injuries in an automobile collision Thursday morning with a car driven by Joseph Bussineau, 52, also of Wells.

He was treated by a local physician for facial lacerations after his car struck the rear end of the Bussineau car, which was stopped at the intersection of Highland and Electric avenues in Wells.

Sheriff's department officials reported that the impact sent the Bussineau car 80 feet down the road and into a snow bank. Estimate of damage to the cars was set at $30 on the Bussineau's car and $400 on Ratkovich's.

Sheriff's officials also reported that Ratkovich stated he failed to have the lights of his car turned on at the time of the accident.

Good lighting depends partly on clean lamps and bulbs. Dusty reflector bowls and bulbs way waste 20 per cent or more of the current.

Swanson Freed By Court Jury

A circuit court jury acquitted Arthur Swanson of Cornell, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Clifford South, shortly before noon today.

The jury retired to its rooms at 10 a. m. after being instructed by Circuit Judge Glenn W. Jackson in the possible verdicts they could deliver—guilty as charged, guilty of assault or not guilty of the charge of manslaughter.

Death Followed Fracas

They deliberated nearly two hours on the evidence and testimony presented in the three-day trial in which 24 witnesses were called to the stand by the state and the defense to testify in the case.

The count of manslaughter was brought against Swanson following the death of South on July 16, 1951 after a scuffle between the two men in the South general store and filling station in Cornell.

Testimony during the three-day trial brought out the fact that Swanson entered the store the evening of July 16 to ask South to refrain from selling certain goods to his family. Whereupon, Swanson reported, South struck him, having contended earlier that he was free to make any lawful sale in his place of business that he desired.

A struggle followed, during which South inflicted a number of body injuries on Swanson and so weakened his own condition through over-exertion of a failing heart that he died a short time later while being taken to St. Francis Hospital.

Guiltily Pleas Entered

In other actions this morning, the court heard a plea of guilty to the charge of breaking and entering in the night time from Donald Provo, 21, of Milwaukee, entered by the attorney appointed to him by the court, and another from Sam Poquette to the charge of breaking and entering in the night time.

Earlier in the week Francis La-Violette entered a plea of nolo contendere which the court accepted as a plea of guilty to the charge of gross indecency.

Sentencing of these men, and of Douglas W. Schaffer, on a guilty plea to the count of unlawfully driving away an automobile, and Arthur King for resisting an officer, was expected to take place this afternoon.

THOSE IN UNIFORM

Sgt. Frank Praznik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Praznik, Trenary, Mich., is returning home under the Army's rotation policy after serving with the 7th Division on the Korean fighting front.

Praznik, a communication chief in the 32nd Infantry Regiment, entered the Army on Sept. 28, 1950. He wears the Combat Infantryman Badge and the Korean Service Ribbon with two campaign stars. He attended Trenary high school.

Pfc. Walter Wapienik, Munising, Mich., graduated recently from the driver training school operated by the Eighth Army Transportation Section in Korea. The course included instruction in preventive maintenance, defensive driving and driving in convoys. He is a member of the 55th Transportation Truck Company.

Elmer G. DeGrand, Escanaba, Mich., serving with the 47th "Viking" Infantry Division, recently was promoted to the rank of corporal. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. DeGrand, 2100 Seventh Ave. S. and is assigned to Company D, 164th Infantry Regiment, as a machine gunner.

Higher Farm Yields Sought

Greater production than ever before is the goal of farmers co-operating with the Farmers Home Administration this year, Robert B. Abbott, FHA supervisor for Delta and Schoolcraft counties, said today.

To achieve the new record, agency borrowers are planning better balanced crop and livestock programs, analyzing ways to keep family members more fully employed, adopting systems for better land use and more productive or "bigger acres," increasing farm efficiency through proper machinery and equipment, and improving inadequate housing.

In this area, special stress will be put on raising more small grain and feed crops.

The aim of higher yields from present land and labor is a part of the national production campaign for 1952, in which all farmers and agricultural agencies are participating.

The Farmers Home Administration makes supervised loans to qualified applicants, unable to obtain suitable loans elsewhere, to own, improve, or operate farms, or acquire better houses and farm buildings.

"Because of the general shortage of manpower," Abbott pointed out, "numerous farmers are coming to us to learn how they can make fuller use of under-employed labor in their families. Systems followed on many small farms in this locality as well as elsewhere, give employment only part of the year, and should be improved. The problem can often be handled by converting from cash crops alone to a sound combination of livestock and feed crops."

Silver Coins Still O. K. In Assay Tests

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—U. S. dimes, quarters and half-dollars are as "sound and fine" as ever—in silver content at least, if not in what they'll bring across the grocery counter.

That was the preliminary decision of a federal assay commission which is conducting a two-day inspection of 32,000 shiny new coins at the U. S. Mint in Philadelphia.

An honorary commission, appointed by the president, has been making the tests on silver content of coins for 160 years. Never have any flaws been uncovered.

The coins are chosen at random from the three federal coinage mints in San Francisco, Denver and Philadelphia.

Elks Plan Annual Father-Son Party Monday Evening

The Escanaba Elks will hold their annual Father and Son party at the lodge club rooms on Monday evening, Feb. 25 with Rev. Father James F. McNaughton, assistant pastor of St. Anne's parish, as guest speaker.

The 6:30 dinner will be followed by a short program which will include, besides Fr. McNaughton's address, a pantomime act by Eddie Gravelle.

The banquet committee is urging all fathers to bring their sons of four years and older and ask that reservations be made by calling 399 before Saturday, Feb. 23. Those men who have no sons are asked to team up with a father having more than one son, thus permitting all members to attend the event.

All member Elks are invited even though they bring no children.

The dinner will be served by the wives of members.

Housewives Respond On Tax Returns For Domestic Employees

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Social Security officials are "agreeably surprised" at the response of housewives in filing old age insurance tax returns on the pay of their domestic employees.

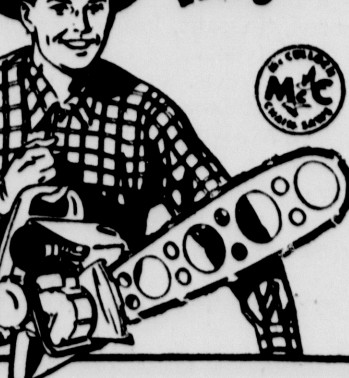

Oscar C. Rogge, director of the Bureau of Old Age and Survivors Insurance, told the House appropriations committee in testimony made public today that more than 700,000 housewives are making the returns and paying the tax.

"The Birds Eye company is 100 per cent in support of this bond issue for the benefit of our employees and the people of Escanaba," said Juel Lee. "Personally I want to give my support to the Board of Education and the Citizens' Advisory Committee, the members of which have made a long and thorough study of the school problem."

"The Birds Eye does not sell its products in Escanaba, but as an industry in the community, we are keenly interested in civic development. We believe that the need for new schools has been proved beyond question and we endorse the bond issue."

Norton as president of the Veneer Workers Union endorsed the school bond issue following a favorable vote by the Union at the Birds Eye. "The Veneer Workers Union, local 3158, AFL, has endorsed the school bond issue because union members recognize the need for adequate schools in our democracy. Our expanding child population cannot be ignored. We need new schools and we need them now," Norton said. (Escanaba Daily Press Photo)

Special Deer Season Urged

Special seasons in problem areas in addition to the regular buck season will be the method of implementing authority to manage the deer herd, should that be granted by the Michigan Legislature, the Michigan Conservation Association here last night. The aim is to take enough deer out of the problem area to bring the herd in line with the food available, he said.

The Stonington area has been selected as one of the areas in the Upper Peninsula to get special treatment, if the Conservation Commission is given the authority and it follows recommendations of the department's game division, Bartlett said. The herd there has built up rapidly in recent years, a definite browse line is showing up on some parts of the peninsula as an indication that numbers of deer are at the point where a tough winter would bring danger of starvation. The area is good cedar country that produces much food both from the cedar and from crops on farms there. It is sufficiently isolated that boundaries of the special hunting area can be clearly defined.

Deer Even Eat Onions
Farmers in the area complain of deer damage. One man claimed that he could no longer grow a vegetable garden, even near the farm home. It is claimed that the deer even eat onions. The claim is made that the deer harvest the oats before the farmer can get to it.

Presently, in the 100 square mile area covered by the Stonington peninsula, the hunters are legally taking three bucks per square mile and it is proposed to attempt to kill off three additional deer per square mile by permit hunting in a special season.

The additional deer kill would come in a special season to follow the regular buck season, with the hunters being drawn by lot. They would be allowed to take either bucks, does or fawns. Hunters who filled a license in the regular season would not be eligible for special permits.

To protect farmers in the area, Howard Eldred district game man, is proposing that the Stonington farmers set up a "Williamston plan". Under such a plan farmers issue permits for hunting on their own lands, require hunters to leave their cars in the farm yard, and require hunters to check out there so the farmer knows who is hunting his land and what they are taking off. In the Lower Peninsula this plan has been the best answer yet worked out to the problem created by the constantly growing number of properties posted with "no hunting" signs.

Presents Comparisons
Bartlett, who has been making a study of deer since 1928, detailed the fluctuations of deer numbers since the period just after the Civil War. He compared conditions in Michigan with those in the states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, New York and the Virginias.

He said that the game division attempts to manage the deer range so that it will produce a maximum of food for deer over the years. Now, if given the power, the attempt will be extended to manage the numbers of deer to fit the food producing capacity of the range.

Wolverine President Jim Rouman, who presided at the meeting, announced that a meeting of the organization would be held in the next few weeks to consider Wildlife Week activities, changes in by-laws and the securing of a club headquarters. Program for that meeting will be announced when the date is set.

The Micmac Indians of Nova Scotia number about 3,400, approximately the same as their estimated population in the early 1600's.

Motorist Injured In Auto Collision

John Ratkovich, 25, of Wells, sustained minor injuries in an automobile collision Thursday morning with a car driven by Joseph Bussineau, 52, also of Wells.

He was treated by a local physician for facial lacerations after his car struck the rear end of the Bussineau car, which was stopped at the intersection of Highland and Electric avenues in Wells.

Sheriff's department officials reported that the impact sent the Bussineau car 80 feet down the road and into a snow bank. Estimate of damage to the cars was set at $30 on the Bussineau's car and $400 on Ratkovich's.

Sheriff's officials also reported that Ratkovich stated he failed to have the lights of his car turned on at the time of the accident.

Good lighting depends partly on clean lamps and bulbs. Dusty reflector bowls and bulbs way waste 20 per cent or more of the current.

Attention Voters

Why build schools now for what we might need in 1962. That's 11 years from now. We may have a major depression before that time, will need a school building project to help the unemployed, and will get our buildings constructed for half of what they cost now.

Citizens' Obligation To Their Children Is Core Of School Issue

THE school bond issue campaign is drawing to a close. Monday the people of Escanaba will go to the polls and will decide whether to approve a school tax increase of a maximum of 10 mills and whether to bond the school district for $1,100,000 to pay for new school buildings which will cost a maximum of $1,750,000. Of this total, $650,000 represents a gift of the late Catherine Bonifas.

Thousands of words have been written and many more thousands of words spoken on the school bond issue, pro and con. We cannot recall a special election in Escanaba

Bevan Has Poor Grasp Of World Realities

PERHAPS in the interim caused by the death of King George VI Britain's left-wing Laborites, led by Aneurin Bevan, will indulge in some sober second thoughts about Anglo-American relations.

Bevan's first thoughts, voiced in the first phase of the debate in Parliament on Prime Minister Churchill's visit to the United States, were strongly anti-American.

As usual, he talked as if this nation were the one to be feared and the Russian bear were as meek as a kitten.

His apparent terror at the possibility Churchill might have committed Britain to a stern course of cooperative action with the U. S. in the Orient in event the truce talks fail is a demonstration which reflects either gross ignorance or lack of responsibility.

How many times does it have to be said that the United States is as interested as any nation in a satisfactory Korean settlement?

After all, which country is it that has suffered 100,000 casualties in Korea. Certainly not Britain.

One might be tempted to suggest that Bevan visit this side of the Atlantic to learn a few raw facts. But there's no proof that would help.

A man with his mind made up does not look for facts that run counter to his conclusions.

Clement Attlee, former Labor prime minister, came over once to talk things over with President Truman.

He had a chance to see and hear Americans, to discover what they really think.

But today, long months after his return home, even he believes there is a "war party" in this country which would like to broaden the conflict in Asia and "have it out" with the Communists.

Fortunately, Attlee's moderate spirit still controls the Labor party. But Bevan, who appears bent on elevating fantasy and irrationality into the realm of science, is getting stronger.

Soon he may be powerful enough to seize the party's reins.

From the standpoint of the solidarity of the free nation, it would be almost as much a calamity to have a Bevan-controlled Labor party come back to power in Britain as to have a DeGaulle government in France.

Neither man seems to have any grasp of world realities.

Churchill, on the other hand, understands the value of a strong Anglo-American bond as a force for peace and order. His reaffirmation of that link is, according to the best information, the only real commitment he made while in Washington.

That he must play this down and instead stress repeatedly that he made no specific pledges to join the U. S. in a possibly enlarged Korean war is a measure of Bevan's low stature as a statesman.

If you would believe Bevan, a promise to stand firm with your friends against aggression is virtually a crime against the state.

He seeks to humiliate and convict Churchill for advocating a policy that is the very cornerstone of free men's security.

The great wonder is that fools like Bevan last so long and command so much attention on the political scene. Possibly they would not if the confusion and chaos abroad in the world did not create fears for them to play on.

All we can do is hope that men of this kind do not prevail in the seats of power.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—It isn't pleasant to contemplate, but the inescapable fact is that Russia is not only outproducing us in planes, but is building up a reservoir of battle-tested pilots to fly them. The blunt fact is that the Kremlin is using Korea as a graduate school to train Russian pilots how to fly against American planes.

Rotating "classes" of Russian pilots have been manning the MIG's over Korea and learning American combat techniques first hand. The present class showed up in Korea on November 1, is now about ready to graduate.

Each class takes the same prescribed course. The first month is spent making navigational flights across Korea. The second month is spent observing American formations at a safe distance. During this period, the MIG's will occasionally make a pass at a bomber formation, but it is all in practice. They never fire a shot. The MIG's also take care to keep out of the way of Air Force F-86 Sabrejets during their breaking-in period.

By the third month, however, the Soviet student-pilots begin to tangle with American fighters—preferably with slower F-80 Shooting Stars and F-84 Thunderjets. As the Russians gain experience, they mix it up with our crack F-86 squads.

The result is that the green Russians are shot out of the skies at the rate of 13 to our one. But the survivors become tough, skillful pilots, baptized by fire and able to hold their own against our best.

Note—In contrast, we send only our crack pilots to Korea, give our new pilots no battle training. Reason is that we are so short of F-86's that we cannot risk letting greenhorns fly them in combat.

"MESSAGES TO MOSCOW"

A lot of schools all over the country are taking advantage of the arrangement whereby the school children of America can broadcast via the Voice of America to school children behind the Iron Curtain. Many newspapers are also cooperating.

In Charleston, W. Va., the Gazette is running a four-week contest among high school children for the best "Messages to Moscow." The winner of each week's contest will be announced weekly, and at the end of the month the final winner will be given a trip to New York to visit the United Nations and broadcast personally over the Voice of America.

The Los Angeles News and the Wichita Eagle are cooperating with California and Kansas schools in running similar contests.

The messages should not be over 150 words, should tell about conditions in American schools, and how the youngsters of this country want peace and resent the artificial barrier to friendship imposed by the Kremlin. Since the youngsters of today will have to carry out the American foreign policy of tomorrow, this is an opportunity for them to help mould that foreign policy now.

CONGRESSIONAL FRIENDS!

For the first time in years, a Senate committee will defy the unwritten code of Congress and question congressmen.

Specifically, Arnold Bauman of the Senate D. C. Crime Committee wants to know why certain congressmen have been so chummy with racketeer Frankie Costello's Washington lobbyist, Murray Olf.

T-men have actually traced long-distance phone calls to Olf from Costello's partner, Dandy Phil Kastel. Olf also kept racketeer Joe Adonis overnight in his hotel room while Adonis was hiding out from the Senate Crime Committee. Olf himself has a criminal record.

Yet this same Olf has been living in style at the Congressional Hotel, has entertained at least 50 congressmen at cocktail parties. A handful of congressmen have been extra close to Olf, and at least one has actually run errands for the racketeer.

Bauman intends to find out why. He personally will call on the congressmen and take their statements. Among those who can expect a visit are Congressmen Morrison of Louisiana, Murphy of New York, Rabaut of Michigan and Willis of Louisiana.

Note—Fear that something like this would happen was one reason why the Senate Crime Committee had a hard time getting its work extended.

FRANCO'S SUCCESSOR

Secret agreement has been reached among the principal advisers and supporters of Spanish Dictator Franco to make Martin Artajo, present foreign minister, the heir-presumptive to the dictator when the generalissimo retires—which will probably happen early in 1954.

Franco himself took the initiative in this decision and backed Artajo as his official successor. Until recently, the 64-year-old "strong man" cherished dreams of a personal dynasty. He hoped his daughter Carmen, an only child, married last year to the Marquess de Villaverde, would present him with a grandson, in which case he planned to keep the dictatorship in the Franco family.

Coming Home To Roost

Much About Heart Still Unknown But Each Year Brings New Data

By WADE JONES

NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—The general field of heart disease—the country's number one killer—is a curious mixture of the known and the unknown, of science reaching out into the future for facts, and of science blocked and helpless because of what it can't find out.

For instance, three diseases account for about 90 per cent of all damage to the heart. They are rheumatic fever; arteriosclerosis, or a hardening and narrowing of the coronary arteries; and hypertension, or high blood pressure.

Yet the cause of these three diseases is not known.

On the other hand, the fruits of research now enable the heart specialist to diagnose quickly and accurately heart diseases that were formerly overlooked or even unknown.

By obtaining an accurate history of the patient's past illnesses, as well as those of his parents and other blood relatives, the specialist goes a long way toward a complete diagnosis. But he would never act on that alone. He needs the corroborative check of detailed physical examination and special tests.

Heredity is a big factor in several major causes of heart disease. Particularly is this true of hardening of the arteries. In one family where both mother and father had hardening of the arteries, all their children suffered heart attacks before they were 40.

The specialist also wants to know all about any rheumatic fever in the patient's family, as well as the patient's own history of the disease. When both parents have had it, the chances that their children will have it are "very high," the specialists say.

It is known also that hardening of the arteries is very common among diabetics.

Despite the fact that the dramatic qualities of heart disease convince many people that they have it when they haven't, its ravages still are frightening.

This can be seen in figures like these from the American Heart Association:

About 10,000,000 people in the United States have some form of heart disease. Of these an estimated half a million are elementary and high school children. Dis-eases of the heart and blood vessels (they are usually lumped together) kill more people each year than the next five causes of death combined.

The economic cost of heart disease is staggering. It accounts for 152,000,000 lost work days each year, according to the Heart Association.

One reason for the high number of deaths from heart disease is our longer life expectancy. As people live to be older, because of the great advances made in combating other diseases, heart disease takes a greater toll, simply because the causes of death have been narrowed down.

Despite all the things science still doesn't know about heart disease, the accomplishments of recent years have been tremendous. Consider subacute bacterial endocarditis. Eight years ago it was one of the most fatal of all heart diseases. Today, thanks to the antibiotics, at least four out of five people recover from it.

Then there are the new plastic heart valves. When the valves of the heart are damaged by rheumatic fever or other diseases, they do not open and close normally. This makes the heart work too hard to produce the proper flow of blood.

To correct such conditions, work is in progress to substitute, surgically, plastic valves for the real ones. The technique has already been perfected in dogs. It's not hard to see the possibilities for humans. ("If the anti-vivisectionists will just keep off our necks," the researchers say.)

Scientists also are working to perfect a mechanical heart-lung apparatus to take over the duties of the heart and lungs for a brief period, so the surgeon can operate on an inactive heart.

Two such experiments, financed by the Heart Association, have worked successfully on small animals. They are approaching the stage when trial on humans will be possible.

There's also the artificial kidneys of the human kidney for ney, which can perform the functions at a time, thus substituting for the organ in our bodies. Kidney disease frequently has been associated with high blood pressure, one of the major causes of heart damage.

There's hope for the old heart, and the hope lies in research. Spearheading such work is the American Heart Association, which last year spent $1,250,000 on research alone. The organization's national fund campaign goal this year is $8,000,000.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The heart is an organ many of us worry about constantly. NEA's reporter Wade Jones, consulted some of America's most distinguished heart specialists to dispel some of that unwarranted fear. This is the last of his two authoritative articles on the heart and current heart research.

Hotels Get Psychologist To Correct Soup-Spillers

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA)—Through such incidents as the Strange Case of the Bell-Hop Who Dropped Bags on People's Toes, psychologist Harold Greenwald has come to regard hotels with great professional enthusiasm.

He doesn't consider them merely as places to eat, sleep and swipe towels; to him, they're "perfect human relations laboratories." So he takes his weekend job as consulting psychologist at the Concord Hotel, Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., very seriously.

He is available to any staff member with a worried mind. There was one veteran waiter who wondered why, all of a sudden, he began to douse the guests with soup. He didn't have anything against the guests or, for that matter, against the soup. He was just having an epidemic of accidents.

By careful questioning, Dr. Greenwald discovered a minor family matter was bothering the waiter. Subconsciously, he was upset and that caused the soup to be used to help him. When the waiter realized the cause of his problems, he relaxed and carried his tray happily ever after.

Greenwald specializes in what he calls "dynamic counseling." He doesn't suggest to a patient what the cause of his trouble is; he quietly brings underlying problems to the surface and lets the patient suddenly realize his own difficulties.

His theory is that most inefficient workers—from a waiter who drops trays to a reporter who spells words in-korrek-ly—are inefficient because of some psychological reason. Many years as a consulting psychologist for large firms have convinced him the theory is right.

He tested it at the hotel on the five waiters with the worst records. These were the ones most likely to spill water, drop trays and antagonize customers. After he talked to them for three months, their accident record dropped 300 per cent.

Greenwald, a small man with a soothing voice and a volcanic pipe, had had equally good results with the bellboys. Like that butter-fingered lad who dropped valises on people's toes with bomb-sight accuracy.

A few talks brought out the fact that the boy had been under his father's thumb. His bag-dropping routine was an "anti-authority attitude" by which he was unconsciously revenging himself.

Another bell-hop had an equally irritating habit. He'd bring guests to their rooms with their bags, but forget the keys. While they waited impatiently in the hall, he'd have to go back to the desk for the keys. This, Greenwald discovered, was a result of the boy's resentment that he had to serve people he considered his inferiors.

By forgetting the keys, he made the guests wait for him. He was thus in command of the situation, and his ego was re-established. Both boys got over their flaws when they realized what was causing them.

And there was the pretty, gracious room clerk. She was pleasant and courteous to everyone—except honeymooners. It developed she was single, and the sight of all those ex-bachelors upset her equilibrium. And a room clerk has no business walking around with a listing equilibrium.

Greenwald also lectures to the hotel's guests on such topics as "How to Be Happy Though Married" or "How to Be Happy Though Not Married," depending upon the relative nuptial state of his audience.

In between lectures, though, he's been consulted by everybody on the staff from the social hostess to the athletic instructors. Everybody, that is, but the house detective.

"He didn't need me," says Greenwald, behind a great puff of smoke. "A house dick has to be a pretty good practical psychologist himself."

With Eisenhower in the race, it is difficult to see how the Republicans can lose. But don't worry; they will find a way—Mayor Thomas Burke of Cleveland.

When I attended college I didn't play basketball. I didn't need the money.—Jack Carson, comedian.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

FACT AND RUMOR—To quiet a little rumor that may have some effect on a big issue—I did not broadcast at 6:45 p. m. Wednesday over the local radio station in opposition to the school bond issue.

At about that hour I had finished shaking hands with Congressman Charlie Potter and was waiting to eat Republican fried chicken at the Delta hotel.

With equal candor I must report that I have never recorded or transcribed a statement in opposition to the school bond issue.

Fact is, I am going to vote for the bond issue as a taxpayer and citizen—and I did speak for the bond issue over the air as a representative of the Citizens Advisory Council.

WHY FOR IT—Under the heading of personal endorsements I might tell you why I am for the school bond issue.

First, I am for it because I know the schools are needed now. The present schools are crowded and there is a large crop of children under five years of age coming on. They will add to the crowding in the next few years.

Second, I am for it because as a citizen and taxpayer I feel the community will benefit from a good school system in the future as it has in the past.

Third, I am for it because I like the idea of an effective public school system as a component part of the rather successful American way of life. These United States, the world's oldest republic, was the first to provide for a system of public education.

THIS IS OUR TOWN—Under the heading of additional information I might tell you that I like Escanaba and its people. I am not an "old resident" but that may give me a different perspective on the problem.

As one of the "little" taxpayers of the community I feel our citizens are getting their money's worth from government at the local level in return for taxes paid at the local level.

Our schools are a branch of local government. The school taxes have not been high. For about ten years my children have had the benefit of the best schooling available in the community.

That they are now in high school and will not attend any of the proposed new schools is of small consequence. I owe the schools a debt of dollars and gratitude for the good education they are receiving despite the low school tax rate.

THE FIRM FOUNDATION—Escanaba is one of the best towns I know when it comes to civic pride and the ability to get things done.

Industrially the town is booming and the future is bright; the big majority of our residents own their own homes; our churches are strong and well attended; city government is already embarked on a program of improvements that will make the town a still better one in which to live.

The people of Escanaba are proud of their town. I know that because they tell me so and show it in their cooperative action on many programs of community improvement.

A large group of our people are now actively cooperating in a volunteer campaign to raise funds for new schools. These people are not being paid for their time and work.

I am one of that group. I have been publicly identified with it for more than a year. It scarcely seems necessary, therefore, to point out that I did not, have not, and will not speak against the proposed school bond issue.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

READERS ASK QUESTIONS

Norwalk, Conn.—"In a newspaper the other day it was said that to pronounce the word 'emeritus,' the third syllable should be accented with 'i' sounded as in 'right.' Is this correct?"—P. M. F.

Answer—As an English word, the only pronunciation given in the dictionaries is "i-MER-i-tus," with "i" as in berry, each "i" as in "habit," and the accent on the second syllable. It means retired from active service, as for age, but retained on the roll in an honorary capacity.

Saginaw, Mich.—"Which is correct: 'He got quickly under weigh' or 'under way with the new plans'?"—G. A. S.

Answer—The correct word is "way." "Weigh," for motion of a ship has sometimes been employed with "under," owing to the influence of "weigh" in the phrase "to weigh anchor" and of "aweigh" in "anchors aweigh."

Escanaba, Mich.—"Which is the correct spelling, 'charivari' or 'shivaree'?"—J. N. T.

Answer—"Shivaree" is a local spelling, not the correct spelling, of "charivari," which may be pronounced "shar-i-VAR-i," "shuh-riv-uh-REE," or "shiv-uh-REE." The word can be traced to 14th century French, but its source is unknown, despite many guesses. "Charivari" denotes a serenade with a medley of music and harsh noises on horns, tin pans, kettles, tea-trays, etc., sometimes given in rural sections to newly married couples. In some parts of the United States this serenade is called a "callithump" (KAL-i-thump).

B. R. E., Washington, Pa.—When used as a verb, the word "consummate" is accented on the first syllable—KON-suh-mate. When used as an adjective, the accent is on the second syllable—kon-SUM-it.

Detroit—"Is it ever good form to begin a sentence with 'however' or 'also'?"—D. M. C.

Answer—There is no reason why either word should not be used to start a sentence. However, many writers are prejudiced against such usage.

The Ohio mother of three children who goes to college is missing a lot of education at home.

The Doctor Says...

The Mental Cure of Warts

Presents a Medical Paradox

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

A reader writes "I would like to tell you of my experience when a child of ten. I'm now 82. My left hand was a mass of warts. A schoolmate told me to steal a piece of red flannel and a piece of raw pork, to fold the pork in the flannel and bury it in the ground under a stone.

"Feeling very guilty I did as directed, but strange to say in three days every wart disappeared, and I have had none since."

An experience such as this reader describes is by no means unusual since there are few if any diseases in which so many different kinds of treatment bring recovery.

This is the one disease in medicine which is surrounded with more superstition than any other because of the rather mysterious nature in which warts come and go.

The response of warts to treatment is all the more astonishing because they are caused by viruses which are small living bodies too tiny to see under the ordinary microscope.

Why a condition caused by viruses should respond to strange treatments of the kind mentioned is something no one knows. The most common type is the so-called "seed wart" which occurs on the hands. Children are more likely to have warts than grownups, but they may come at any age.

Ruark Writes Of Dogs, People

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—Every time I got to Madison Square Garden to watch the dog persons showing the dogs in the annual Westminster pooch parade, I come away relieved. Thank the Lord, say I, the dog persons are showing the dogs, because if the dogs were showing the dog persons nobody would win anything.

A dog person is blood brother to a horse person, in that both resemble physically the animals they show. But whereas a horse person is generally a pretty natty type and makes a great thing about stocks and jodhpurs and jackets, dog persons look mostly as if they were something the dog just dragged in, which is not the case. The dogs come to the shows under protest, with the exception of a few hams who begin life smirking from a kennel basket and never drop the habit.

If one may generalize, the female dog person is apt to be a bit dowdier than the male. Both in the ring and out, they seem to run toward saggy tweed skirts and twisted stockings, with some emphasis on mousy hair, horn-rimmed spectacles, and low-heeled brogans. There is some sort of house rule that makes it illegal for a female dog person to appear in anything but low-comic shoes and a generally dandruffy condition.

Dog People Are Odd
The male dog person is a baggy-slacks, breed, apt to decorate his hat with a band of pheasant feathers and his belly with a tattersall vest. I do believe some of them drink, too, because the flushed face is parcel to the scene, and an odor that cannot be entirely composed of kibble permeates the tableau. I have noticed also that most of the non-working or spectating dog persons of the male breed either wear their hair in crewcuts or let it run wild over the collar. Nor is the turtle-neck sweater a curiosity.

Dog people do odd things. I saw one female dog person crouching in a vacated cage, performing tricks with a crossword puzzle. The dog had disappeared, and was probably to be found sitting in one of the more expensive box seats, watching the odd antics of the performing dog persons in the show rings. And the antics are amusing. Dog persons are carefully taught to run to heel and bridle at judges and jerk leashes and all sorts of kindred feats. To look at them, sometimes, you would almost suspect them of being human.

Whilst waiting in the wings, so to speak, for fame to brush them lightly, the dogs are kenneled in open-front cages below decks in the Garden, where they are subject to molestation by the non-working dog persons. This puts considerable strain on the animals, for it is considered poor form to bite the features off some beldame who cuddles her slightly stale perfume to the animal's face, cradles him to her talcumed chest and murmurs: "Oon isn't uwn outsums ickums cute-ums?"

Dog's Place Is In the Home
There are signs that enjoin the dogs to refrain from petting the people, which I notice the dogs obey to the letter. There are also signs pointing to the veterinary's kennel, for the benefit of vicarious dog persons who may have mislaid an arm while fraternizing with the chows or the dobermans. Mostly, though, the dogs are much too afraid of germs to bite the people. They have been told that dogs can contract hydrophobia that way, or at least a disquieting virus.

One of the odd things about dog persons is that they do not seem to care much for dogs, as dogs. Everyone who is owned by dogs knows that a dog's place is in the home, sleeping in the master's best chair, or curled up on the mistress's best negligee. My dogs for instance, have taken up reading—at least they get the books down and spread them on the floor all the time—and could not think of being interrupted to swagger around in front of a lot of strangers.

This is probably because I do not bat them over the snout or

Church And State:

Ambassador To Vatican Marked By Controversy

(This is the second of a series of stories on church-state relationships in the United States)

By GEORGE CORNELL
NEW YORK —A controversy is crackling around President Truman's plan to send an ambassador to the Vatican.

The move, yet to be put before the Senate for confirmation, has stirred up a storm of Protestant opposition—and inter-church friction.

"The President has driven a divisive wedge into our national life," said Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxman. Scores of other churches have echoed these words.

Most major religious publications in the country have entered into the dispute. Roman Catholic writers defend the action; Protestants denounce it.

Protestants Opposed
Little stacks of pamphlets arguing the questions have appeared on tables and in the churches and Sunday schools across the land. Lectures and protest rallies on the subject are common.

"The remarkable thing," said Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, "has been the spontaneous and unanimous way in which Protestants everywhere have opposed this unfortunate step."

Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, heads a six-man committee to coordinate opposition among the 29 denominations of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

"As Christians and as Americans we repudiate prejudice against Roman Catholics and deplore religious dissent," the Council said, but the issue was "thrust upon us" and is a "threat to basic American principles."

The Pros and Cons
In less restrained quarters, the move has been the basis of broad attacks on Catholicism.

Most of the "pros" and "cons" have centered around this country's deeply rooted tradition: "separation of church and state."

Here are just a few of the arguments, as advanced by various Catholic and Protestant spokesmen, on what diplomatic relations with the Vatican would mean:

1. Against—It would show religious preference and give the Roman Catholic church a special status with the U. S. government.

For—no preference is involved. It would simply facilitate relations with a unique church establishment, the only one which desires or is in a position to receive an envoy.

2. Against—by recognizing the Pope as head of a foreign state, it would make Catholic priests agents of a foreign power, and put Cardinals in the dubious position of having helped elect a foreign sovereign.

Effective Diplomacy
For—Priests owe no political allegiance whatever to the Pope but only recognize his guidance in faith and morals.

3. Against: It's absurd to say, as the president does, that the mission would be merely to Vatican State, a tiny, 108-acre strip with about 1,000 residents. Actually, it would be to the Pope, as head of a church.

For—True, the Vatican's international significance derives from the Holy Father's moral influence. But foreign policy must consider not only a state's size, but its importance in the world community.

4. Against—If the Vatican has information valuable to the United States in fighting Communism, it could be relayed to our Ambassador to Italy, without considerations of diplomatic protocol.

For—If protocol is of little concern, then there is no valid objection to abiding by it to make cooperation flow more smoothly effective diplomacy requires clear channels of approach.

5. Against—To send an ambassador to the Vatican on grounds it is an information center would indicate the Catholic church is a network of spies.

Truman's Promise
For—Espionage is beyond the remotest concern of the church. It is fantastic to imply priests are out counting guns and airfields. Naturally they are aware of sociological conditions of hunger, disease, oppressions, of moral attitudes and needs. It is in this human and spiritual realm the church is informed, and in this realm, the best peace efforts lie.

Protestants claim President Truman went back on a promise not to make such an appointment. They cite a letter, dated Aug. 4, 1948, signed by his secretary, saying the mission of Myron C. Taylor, his personal envoy, would be terminated.

"Moreover," the letter added, "that will remain the President's policy and will be strictly adhered to so long as he is in office."

Taylor, first appointed by the late President Roosevelt in 1940, resigned in 1950.

Precedent Of A Sort
Of the 43 countries represented, at the Vatican, 20 predominantly Catholic countries have full ambassadors. The United States would be the only predominantly Protestant country to have a full ambassador.

There is a 100-year-old precedent of a sort, for having a U.S. Am-bassador to the Papal States.

The move caused a furore of anti-clerical speeches in Congress. The mission ended 19 years later in 1867 after Congress refused to appropriate money to support it on grounds the Vatican closed some Protestant churches in Italy.

Protestants, however, note that in those days the Papal States comprised a major part of central Italy, an area of some 16,000 square miles with more than 3,000,000 population. This was before revolutionists led by Garibaldi overthrew Papal rule in 1870, and sent the Pope into seclusion for 59 years until Benito Mussolini agreed in 1929 to grant him his present domain.

Retroactive Wage Raises Demanded At Michigan Bell

DETROIT — (AP) — The CIO Communications Workers of America demanded today that any wage increase agreed upon with the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. be made retroactive.

Contracts covering 16,800 employees in the company's accounting, plant and traffic departments will expire tomorrow.

The company asked the union yesterday to extend present contracts until March 15 while negotiations continue.

Herbert F. Lange, Michigan Bell vice-president, said the offer was made "to permit further bargaining since specific demands have not yet been made by the union on the principal economic terms."

In Lansing, Walter Schaar, district director of the CWA, said the union has proposed a day to day extension of the contracts with retroactivity to the date of expiration.

"The union feels that without retroactivity there is no pressure on the company for a speedy settlement of the dispute."

Schaar said the union has demanded the full amount of wage increase permissible under wage stabilization board regulations.

The present contracts were

"That's the Smartest Million Dollars BUICK Ever Spent"

WHEN we tell you that every 1952 Buick rides like a million dollars, we're not just slinging slang—we're talking real money—right-on-the-barrelhead cash.

A million dollars and more were poured into research and testing—design and tools—engineering, production and components—to team up the combination of ride features you'll find on a Buick—and on no other car in the world.

A million dollars and more was the price paid to work out control of end-sway and side-roll on curves—to double-check vertical "throw" with shock absorbers and big soft-acting coil springs for all four wheels—to V-brace the torque-tube keel and X-brace the frame—to cushion body and engine—and to silk out the whole operation with Dynaflo Drive.*

You may not care how the job was done, or what it cost. But we'll lay you this: You're going to say "thanks a million" to Buick engineers once you get this spirited smoothie under your hands and haunches.

Old familiar roads take on a new smoothness. Gone are the weave and wander, the jitter and jounce that you've felt in lesser cars. You ride with road-hugging assurance and level ease.

All of which only begins to tell you what really great cars these 1952 Buicks turned out to be.

Never before have style and stamina—comfort and character—power, performance and price been brought together with such satisfying skill.

The obvious thing for you to do is come in and look them over. How about taking half an hour off to do that—today?

Rock Woman Writes Of Experiences In Florida

(Editor's note: Mrs. Walter Mammie, Rock correspondent of the Escanaba Daily Press, has written this article of her experiences in a recent trip to Florida.)

By Mrs. Walter Mammie

A lot of people seem interested to know how hard it hits the pocketbook to make a trip to Florida. Due to the fact that we stayed with friends in Chicago going and coming, with relatives in Georgia and St. Petersburg, and friends in Miami, I cannot give the exact figures of what it would have cost had we had to pay for all of our lodging and meals. The expenses on the car, gas and oil, came to $73.75. On this we traveled 4,529 miles and saw a good part of Florida, including Key West. Rent for motel rooms, for the nights we did not stay with friends and relatives, averaged $10 for the four of us, and $7 for the two of us. The rooms are cheaper at this end, but are higher in south Florida. The prices on food is somewhat cheaper than at home. About the only clothes necessary are a bathing suit, a cotton dress and a pair of sandals. A man will get along beautifully with swim trunks, a sport shirt and slacks. You can spend a lot more by staying in one of the plush hotels and frequenting the expensive night clubs. On the other hand, we know of others who spent less than we did by taking cheaper rooms and eating in places where tipping wasn't expected. Still they enjoyed the same climate and sunshine.

Man-Made Beauty
Unlike the great west there is nothing magnificent or inspiring in the natural scenery in Florida. But it does have sunshine and beautiful silvery white sand beaches. Most of the land is perfectly flat with small straight pines or dismal swamp with moss covered trees. Most of the beauty is man made like the beautiful pastel colored homes and lawns with large varieties of colorful tropical shrubs and flowers. Also the canals in Fort Lauderdale. They are beautiful and handy. There a man can step off of his porch into his boat or yacht and go sailing in his back yard or sail out to sea!

Obviously, Florida's main industry is the tourist business. It is busy with tourists and with people spending the winter. We were told by many that more people are coming down every year. Real estate values are going up and new homes, hotels and cabins are being built. Much filling is being done. Land that is low and swampy is filled in and almost overnight turns into a tropical garden with palm trees and a beautiful pink and white dream home.

Rents and food prices are boosted up and in some cases almost doubled by the 15 of January, the beginning of the big season. A 3 per cent state tax is designed to catch the tourist in that you aren't taxed for the groceries but have to pay the tax when you eat the food. The 3 per cent tax is on all rents and on clothing only from $10 up. One Floridian described it very neatly when he was asked what he does down there. Said he, "in summer we pick blueberries and in the winter we pick the Yankees." However, most of the businesses are run by people from the north.

Try Cattle Raising
The growing of oranges and citrus fruits and truck farming is the second largest industry. Florida is now the 1st largest orange producing state in the country and ranks second in the growing of tomatoes. They also produce sweet corn, strawberries, beans, cauliflower and eggplant. The truck farms mostly employ cheap Porto Rican labor. Spraying of insects is done by planes and is a rapidly growing business. They are also trying to promote cattle ranching in Florida. The mixing of the Brahman breed of India with beef cattle is being tried to best suit the Florida climate. To us it did not look successful. The cattle all look scrawny and small. The reason for it, according to general opinion, are the hordes of insects and ticks that infest the place during the summer. There are also poisonous snakes and scorpions.

Florida evidently is the fisherman's paradise. There is good fishing in any creek, lake, puddle or ditch, not to mention the ocean and the gulf. There was a lot of fishing being done off the bridges on the Keys. Boats for deep sea fishing leave daily from every port.

The growth of tropical trees and shrubs is very rapid. Certain species of trees can be planted and will grow up to 8 or 9 feet, and bear fruit in less than a year. The stately Royal palm is a poinsettia root by a kind lady (to be planted in a pot when I got home) who assured me that by next summer it would be from 4 to 5 feet high and with blossoms. My fingers are crossed that it survives!

Story of Romance
The green benches on the sidewalks of downtown St. Petersburg are for the benefit of the aged who crowd that city. The benches make a handy place to sit and visit and provide an ailing place for those who live in down town apartments. They also have a romantic value. One of them is supposed to be the matrimonial bench, and wherever couples meet on it always end up by getting married. You hear of many romances (not young romances) that had their start on the green benches. One story was of a couple, both widowed, who met on the unknown but famous bench and were soon married. In the spring they went north to her old home for the summer. In the fall they came back to St. Petersburg for the winter. Eventually they went and sat on the old bench. After sitting awhile he said, "This is where I found you". He walked away and, so goes the story, she never saw him again.

After four days on the gulf peninsula of St. Petersburg we followed the west coast and the Tamiami Trail to Miami. Of the Everglades we did not see very much because it got dark on us and we did not later take a side trip into the swamp. We did see some of it, and a few of the Seminole's that are said to be still inhabiting the Everglade jungles.

Miami is the melting pot of Florida. The population is mixed, consisting of whites, Negroes, Portoricans and mixed breeds. The climate is wonderful, but we were not impressed by the city of Miami or its suburb, Miami Beach. The first is too big and common, and the second is too elaborate and pretentious. This is where you find the extravagant ultra modern hotels and night clubs. They line the street on both sides, one more striking and lavish than the next. It makes you wonder at the wealth spent there. Amidst these monuments of plush living and modern architect's imaginations stretched to the ninth degree, we noticed a small, humble church that looked as if it had been pushed into the background and forgotten. In front of it was a sign in neon light, "Prepare to meet thy God." Almost like a warning, we thought.

Trip To Key West
Our friends in Miami made the trip with us to Key West, a distance of 165 miles (one way). A good part of this distance is over water. You travel over a chain of bridges the longest one being 7 miles in length. Interesting thing is that although the Keys are surrounded by water the water supply is piped in all the way from the mainland, some 150 miles. There are pump stations at intervals along the way. Key West has come to life again since the little White House has been located there. The little restaurant into which President Truman walked unguarded for a cup of coffee still has the cup and saucer sitting there just as he left them.

The architecture in Key West is old and in complete contrast to the extreme modern of Miami and its suburbs. Most of the buildings are old and dilapidated, although there are some new buildings. Unusual and intriguing to note are the shutters on all the windows. They can be closed and locked and are a possible protection from intruders and the tropical storms. There is something about the desolate loneliness of the Keys that stirs the imagination. It is not at all too difficult to imagine that in the past the pirates used its coves and little harbors as shelter and hiding place for their treasures.

We passed the place where the young wife from Canada mysteriously disappeared several weeks ago and has not been found. We also saw the place where the movie "Key Largo" with Humphrey Bogart was filmed.

Midway to Key West our friends took us to dinner in one of the few good eating places along the way. Red snapper and other sea foods were their specialties. Another specialty was their Key lime pie. It's like lemon pie only limes are used instead of lemons. The limes are grown there, of course.

The waters in the Key are beautiful shades of blue, green and aqua. From the bridges you can see fish leap into the air. We returned in the evening and were on the highest bridge when the sun set.

Geographical Jealousies
After two days in Miami we followed the east sea coast and the lovely sand beaches to Vero Beach where we cut inland. First we stopped over for two days in Lake Worth where we went swimming in the Atlantic. In Miami we had spent an afternoon on the beach but had not gone swimming. We were anxious to try it to decide for ourselves which side we liked the best, the east or the west coast. The rivalry between the two coasts was amusing and reminded me of California and its smog joke. In Florida the gulf coast people will tell you "You won't like the east coast. That's where they have the hurricanes." The people on the Atlantic coast will tell you that their climate is a lot better and they are all old fogies on the gulf, anyway.

Among other points of interest that we saw was the Bok Singing Tower located amidst the orange groves in central Florida, and the Tropical Gardens. Here we saw rare cultured orchids and orchids growing on trees. We visited Cyprus Gardens where newsreel pictures were being taken of the water skiers. We also saw Silver Springs where the movie "Silent Drums" with Gary Cooper was made.

Familiar sights in Florida are the orange stands, the shuffle board courts and a camp fire by the side of the road where a family of fishermen are cooking their catch before going home.

Among the many things we learned is that mistletoe grows on oak trees in Georgia. The moonshine stills, we heard say, are still percolating up in those red clay hills and politics is real warm. But I was writing about Florida.

The weather for the entire trip was lovely. The sun shone every day except in Illinois and Indiana. We drove as far as Indiana without our coats and hats and did not put our heavy coats on until we were near Chicago. Then leaving Chicago we began to see snow and more of it as we headed toward the quiet of the north woods. Next morning after we got home a friend calls to say, "welcome home. It's good to see lights in your house again." Soon it will seem like a dream. A pleasant one.

Wells

Valentine Birthday Party
WELLS—Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Klug honored their daughter Barbara Ann on her fifth birthday with a group of her small friends.

The children enjoyed an afternoon of games. Pin the tail on the donkey, the cotton game, and a treasure hunt for candy hearts were played. Freddy Meintz, Darlene Dufour, David Carlson, and Kristine and Suzanne won the games.

After the games a party lunch was served. A valentine box which was gaily decorated formed the centerpiece. Red ribbons from the valentine box to each child's place, tiny red hearts and miniature nut cups filled with valentine candies and a heart shaped cookie with each child's name formed a very attractive birthday table.

The valentine box was filled with presents for each child and after the birthday lunch each child pulled his red ribbon and received a reward. A large valentine birthday cake also was enjoyed.

Barbara received many lovely gifts from her friends. Guests in addition to those mentioned were, Daryl Carlson, John and Dick Schwartz, Tommy Meintz and her sister, Pamela.

Plan Card Party
The Wells Service Club is sponsoring a time limit card party to be held in the Wells Township Hall Feb. 18 from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. Each will alternate at his own table.

Any Club member wishing to furnish a table is asked to contact Louis Dufour before Monday evening. High and low prize and a guest award will be presented and the Service Club will furnish a free lunch.

The Wells Service Club has sponsored many worthwhile activities for the children such as the ice rink, and the ball diamond and also has done much to improve the community. This party is to raise funds to help the Service Club continue its work along this line. A small admission will be charged.

Joyce's Seventh Birthday
Mr. and Mrs. Eugene of Groos honored their daughter Joyce Lee with a birthday party on her seventh anniversary.

As soon as the children arrived a sleigh ride party was held. After the sleigh ride party the children enjoyed games and a delicious party lunch was served.

Valentine suckers formed the place cards for the birthday table which was all in valentine motif. A large valentine cake centered the table. James Hughes, Tom Groos, Johnny Pinar and Dick Collins won the prizes for the games.

Joyce Lee received many gifts from her friends who were other than mentioned above. Russell and David Greenless, Kristine and Suzanne Klug, Darlene Dufour of Wells, Susan Vanlerbergh, Margaret Murphy and Dennis Slaga of Groos, her brothers Michael and Tommy, grandmothers Mrs. Anna Eugene and Mrs. Walter Pinar and Tommy and Jimmy Rosmeyer of Menominee.

Attention Voters

The interest must be paid on the proposed school loan of $1,100,000.00, making a total obligation of 1 1/2 million dollars. Can we afford another large tax increase on our homes, or if we rent, 15% more? Isn't our tax load high enough now?

Vote NO on Monday against this extra tax.

Soldier's Body Arrives Sunday

The body of Cpl. Roland P. Landwehr, 23, third Schoolcraft County soldier killed in the Korean War, will arrive here accompanied by a military escort on the 9:15 Soo Line train Sunday morning, it is announced by Donald Messier, veterans counselor.

Cpl. Landwehr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Landwehr, of Manistique township, was killed in action on Oct. 21, 1951.

The body will be taken to the Messier - Brouillette Funeral Home where friends may call beginning at noon Cpl. Landwehr Sunday. Rosary will be recited at 7 Sunday evening.

Funeral services are scheduled for 9 a. m., Monday from St. Francis de Sales church, with the Rev. F. M. Schering officiating. The body will be placed in Lakeview vault and will be buried next spring in Fairview cemetery.

Veterans organizations of the city and county will extend full military honors at the services, it is announced.

Cpl. Landwehr was born May 26, 1928, in Kingsford. He attended St. Francis de Sales grade school and graduated from Manistique high school with the class of 1947.

He was a member of St. Francis de Sales church, the Manistique Council of the Knights of Columbus, and at one time was treasurer of the Manistique Township Community Planning Club.

Inducted into the Army Oct. 17, 1950, he arrived in Japan on April 6, 1951, and shortly afterwards was transferred to the Korean war front.

Besides his parents he is survived by his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Theresa Weber, route one; a sister, Marilyn, at home; and two brothers, Lawrence, of Milwaukee and Francis, of Dearborn.

Erik Eriksen Dies In Flint

Erik Eriksen, 65, a former resident of Manistique and a road designer for the Michigan State Highway Department, passed away last Friday in a Flint hospital, friends here have learned.

Funeral services were held Monday.

He was born in Manistique Sept. 17, 1886, and was a graduate of Manistique high school, moving from this community to Flint 38 years ago. He received his engineering degree from the University of Michigan and later served in World War I. He was a member of a Lutheran Church and the Masonic order in Flint.

Survivors are his wife, the former Lula Darling, of Flint; four sons, John, of Indianapolis, Edward, of Hammond, Ind., Cpl. Ralph, now serving in Korea, and David, at home in Flint; a daughter, Mrs. E. J. Swart, of Marysville; two grandchildren; and two brothers, Rudolph, of Holland, and Arthur, of Newark, O.

Another brother, Harry, former mayor and city manager of Manistique, passed away several years ago.

Local Pioneer Celebrates His 75th Birthday

Frank Merwin, youngest and only living member of a family of seven boys and one girl which settled in this area about 70 years ago, observed his 75th birthday anniversary quietly among relatives here Wednesday evening.

A party in his honor was given by Judge and Mrs. Ralph Merwin, Deer St.

The Merwin family came to this area in the early logging days from Portville, N. Y. First of the brothers to arrive was Charles O. Merwin, who homesteaded the Doyle township farm where Judge and Mrs. Merwin now make their summer home.

William and Lewis J. Merwin Jr. came next but the latter returned to Olean, N. Y., where he served as police chief until his death. William worked as a blacksmith at lumber camps and at the old Chicago Lumber Company shop on Main street. He later was blacksmith for the Charcoal Iron Company.

Nelson Merwin, also a blacksmith and mechanical engineer, was employed for many years by the White Marble Lime Company and later worked at Bryan for the Stack Lumber Company.

Fred Merwin worked in the woods and on the river was later employed by the Chicago Lumber Company at its hardware and furniture stores and still later went into the dairy and team trucking business.

George "Jake" Merwin, who was employed as blacksmith and woodworker in logging camps for many years, died here about three years ago at the age of 82.

May, the only girl in the family, married William Boyce, a marine engineer, who was for many years an engineer on the Ann Arbor carteries.

Frank, only living member of the family, came here with his mother, brother, Fred, and sister, May, in 1885. Jake followed later. Charles, Lewis, William and Nelson were already here at that time.

As a youth Frank was employed at the Chicago Lumber Company watermill, and later worked for the White Lime Company. For many years prior to his retirement he was employed by the city water department.

Grid Club To Fete Fighters

Manistique's champion Golden Gloves boxers, three of them winners at Milwaukee Tuesday night, will be guests of the Manistique Quarterback Club at its next regular meeting Monday evening at Denny's, it is announced by L. E. Wilson, president.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:30.

Accompanying the boxers will be Edward Toyra, local trainer, and the Rev. George Pernaski, director of the Catholic Youth Organization which is sponsoring boxing in Manistique.

Boxers to be introduced will be Wayne Tuffnell, Francis Selling and Harvard Lancour, Milwaukee winners, and Bob Minor, who lost out in the Milwaukee Golden Gloves event.

The Rev. Pernaski and Toyra will address the club on the CYO boxing program and will announce plans for a local matched fight card here on Saturday, March 1. William J. Cook, Manistique high school athletic director, also will be on the speaking program.

Philip Villemure will have charge of arrangements for the meeting and program.

Naubinway Club Meets
The Homemakers club of Naubinway was entertained at the home of Mrs. Art Loomis. Guests of the club were Mrs. Herbert Fisher and Mrs. Vern Houghton of the Gilchrist club. Members tied a quilt for the new cot being purchased for the Naubinway school. Games followed the lunch was served by Mrs. John Paulsen and Mrs. Loomis, hostesses. The next meeting will be held Feb. 18.

Handy Hands Club
The Handy Hands Extension Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Reuben Peterson, of Thompson, with Mrs. William Maxwell as assisting hostess.

During a brief business meeting the club's project leaders, Mrs. William Arnold and Mrs. Henry Archey, were selected to attend a follow-up lesson on furniture arrangement.

Valentine decorations featured the luncheon centerpiece.

The next meeting will be held on March 12 at the home of Mrs. William Arnold, N. 2nd St.

Guests at Tuesday's meeting were Mrs. Fred Davis Sr., Mrs. John Olsen, and Mrs. John Lowery.

St. Cecilia Circle
The St. Cecilia's Circle held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Harvey McLaughlin, 519 Manistique Ave., with Mrs. Eli Voisine as assisting hostess.

After the business meeting cards were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. John Borko in dog house; Mrs. Harold Popour and Mrs. Fred Hinkson in canasta; and Mrs. Don McPhail in 500.

Lunch was served later. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, March 11, at the home of Mrs. John Borko, 236 Chippewa Ave.

Dupont Inquest Is Postponed

Because of the physical inability of either Mr. or Mrs. Brynold Kero to testify, a coroner's inquest into circumstances connected with the auto accident in which Mrs. George Dupont was fatally injured has been adjourned until a later date.

The inquest was scheduled for 10 a. m. this morning in the office of William J. Sheahan, prosecuting attorney.

The Kero family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Kero and their three children, were occupants of a car which collided almost head-on last Saturday afternoon with a machine driven by Mrs. Dupont. The Keros, who reside in Detroit, are patients at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Prosecuting Attorney William J. Sheahan, in announcing the second postponement of the inquest yesterday, said that the hearing would be held when one of the elder Keros was physically able to attend and give testimony. Members of the coroner's jury will be notified in advance by telephone call or letter, he said.

Cook To Attend Track And Field Committee Meet

William J. Cook, Manistique high school athletic director, left early this morning for Lansing where tomorrow he will attend a meeting of the State Association Track and Field Committee.

Cook is the only Upper Peninsula member of the committee.

The group is scheduled to go into session at 10 a. m. tomorrow in the office of Lee Thurston, state superintendent of public instruction. Rules covering high school track and field events are slated for discussion.

Cook will return to Manistique Sunday.

Pin Veterans Are Honored

Presentation of prizes to winning bowling teams and the honoring of seven bowlers who have been active in Elks leagues for 25 years or more highlighted the Elks annual mid-winter bowling banquet Wednesday evening.

Members of winning teams during the first half of the season were guests at the banquet, which was prepared, served and paid for by losers.

Prizes to first half winners were presented by E. H. LeBrasseur, bowling secretary, who announced winners as follows:

National League: First, Papermakers; second, Toolmakers; third, Barneys; fourth, Hoholiks.

American League: First, Lumberjacks; second, Malloys; third, Van Eycks; fourth, Top O' Lakes.

Tribute to veteran bowlers was expressed by Fred H. Hahne, exalted ruler, who said that organized bowling at the Elks club was started 30 years ago. Gifts for the seven men honored, which failed to arrive in time for the banquet program, will be presented later, Hahne announced.

Six 30-year bowling veterans and their comparative averages in 1922 and 1952 were listed as follows by the exalted ruler:

Leon Nicholson, 114-144; P. P. Stamness, 136-157; T. H. Bolitho, 159-151; Jack Quick, 156-168; R. G. Hentschell, 158-157; Tony Buchs, 164-157. The first figure given is the 1922 average.

S. O. Crowe was the only 25-year bowler of the club still active in league competition, the speaker said. His 1927 average was 163 and his current average is 122.

Also honored for his many years of service to the bowling league and the club was Alex Creighton, who was presented with a gift.

Carl L. Carlson, past exalted ruler, presided as toastmaster.

Plans Complete For Gun Shoot, Banquet Sunday

Arrangements are complete for a women's rifle shoot and banquet Sunday afternoon at the National Guard Armory under the sponsorship of the Manistique Rifle and Pistol Club, it is announced by Arthur Hough, club president.

The rifle event is slated to start at 2 p. m. and the banquet will be held at 6.

All members of the club are urged to be present for the matches and to bring their wives or, if they are single men, their girl friends.

A total of 16 prizes will be offered, Hough said, including 10 event prizes, one grand prize, and five consolation awards.

Municipal Band To Give Milk Fund Benefit Concert

The Manistique Municipal Band will present a concert in the high school auditorium Wednesday evening, March 5, it is announced by Ferd Gorsche, director.

Proceeds of the concert will be contributed to the public school milk fund.

The program and other details of the concert will be announced later, Gorsche said.

Dinner music was provided by Fred D. Heltman and Ross Collier, and Aldred Farley led group singing.

A bowling match against two Newberry teams was held at the conclusion of the program.

Will Sponsor Essay Contest

An essay contest on the subject, "Preserving American Democracy," has been announced for Manistique High school students under the sponsorship of the Inland Lime and Stone Company.

Essays, to be 300 to 600 words in length, must be completed and turned into the office of Carl Olson, principal, on or before March 24.

Only students who attend the complete program of the "In Our Hands" series will be eligible to compete, Olson said. This is a combination movie and flip chart series sponsored by the Inland firm and now being shown to high school students.

The series previously has been shown to various local organizations and to employees of Inland. It is a presentation of the free enterprise system.

The following prizes are being offered:

First: One share of common stock in the Inland Steel Company, with an approximate market value of $50.

Second: $50 Defense Bond (value $37.50).

Third: $25 Defense Bond (value $18.75).

All entries will become the property of Inland.

Elks Sponsored Scout Troop To Meet On Tuesday

The first meeting of Boy Scout troop 462 at the Elks temple will be held next Tuesday evening, starting at 7, it is announced.

The session will be held in the second story lodge room, the Scouts entering the hall via a covered rear fire escape stairway.

The new Elks troop committee, headed by Sidney Bouwer, will hold an organization meeting at 8:30 Tuesday night.

Sponsorship of the troop is one phase of a youth program recently launched by the lodge, it is announced by Fred H. Hahne, exalted ruler. Alan Walter is chairman of the Elks youth committee.

Troop 462 was formerly sponsored by the First Baptist Church. Robert Hentschell is Scoutmaster.

Eskymo Cagers To Play Last Home Game Tonight With Manistique Team

The Eskymos basketball team will close out its home schedule tonight with Manistique providing the opposition at the Junior high school gymnasium. Game time is 8:30 o'clock and the feature will be preceded by a preliminary game involving two intramural teams at 7:15 o'clock.

Last year the Eskymos knocked off the Escanaba team by a single point at Manistique. Coach Baltic's squad will be looking for revenge tonight.

The starting lineup for Escanaba will be Heiden and Boddy at guards, Baldwin at center, Peterson and Johnston at forwards. Tom Smith will undoubtedly get into the fray, probably early in the proceedings but Paul Gunderman will not be in uniform for tonight's game. He is ineligible for competition this week.

Others who will be ready for action are Bartley, Artley, Michael and LeMire.

Officials will be C. J. St. Germain and Evan Kelly of Marquette.

EMERALDS READY

MANISTIQUE — Facing one of his toughest assignments at Escanaba tonight, Coach Robert Hussey said yesterday that his Emeralds will have to exhibit a much better brand of basketball than they did in practice this week if they expect to hold their own against the Escanaba high school five.

Contrary to the practice form they showed last week prior to the Newberry clash, the boys have been "way off their game" in workouts this week, Hussey said gloomily.

The coach has picked the same starting combination as was used against Newberry last Friday, with Dick Lake at center, Warren Wilson and Don St. John at the forward spots, and Bob McNamara and Paul Hinkson in the defensive positions.

The Emeralds seconds will also take to the road tonight, traveling to Engadine for a return engagement with the Engadine high school quint.

ESKIMO SENIOR — Warren (Jojo) Johnston, guard on Coach Steve Baltic's Escanaba Eskymo cage quint, wearing the Black and Gold for the final time as a senior this season. Johnston, who performed at end for the Eskymo grid team last season, works as a front-line reserve. He also lettered in baseball last year. (Daily Press Photo)

Gladstone Wins Reserve Tourney

STEPHENSON — Gladstone won permanent possession of the Menominee Herald Leader reserve team basketball trophy by defeating Menominee, 49 to 41, for the Class B-C championship here last night. It was Gladstone's third championship. The Braves won in 1948 and 1950. Hermansville won the Class D-E trophy by defeating Cooks, 51 to 45, in the first game of the night.

Trojans To Play At Rapid River

The St. Joe Trojans travel to Rapid River Saturday night to take on Coach Norman Slough's red-hot Rockets. This is the only meeting of the season for these two teams, and it promises to be a high-scoring affair.

The Trojans will be trying to keep their ten won, two lost season record intact, while the Rockets will be seeking their sixth straight win. In last week's outings, St. Joe dumped Stephenson 73-52, while Rapid River defeated Treenary 56-47.

Junior Puck Tilts Lively; Public Invited To Watch

The Gladstone Falcons tipped the Escanaba Southside Knights, 6-1, and Wells Red Wings blanked Cornell's Blue Links, 4-0, in two fast Delta County Junior Hockey league tilts at the Escanaba junior high rink last night.

On tap tonight is a junior league battle between Wells, 3-2, conqueror of Gladstone earlier in the week, and the Escanaba Junior Hawks. Jerry Tagliabracchi, Senior Hawk defenseman, will supervise play at the outdoor hockey rink here tonight.

Red Wings Hold Winning Pace

CHICAGO—Neither the Detroit Red Wings nor their star scorer Gordie Howe is showing any signs of a letup in the late stages of the National Hockey league race.

Detroit's 3-2 victory over the last place Chicago Black Hawks here last night proved that.

The win, gained only after a hard-fought third period, stretched the Red Wings' lead over the rest of the league to 14 points, the largest yet this season.

And Howe, already on top of the circuit in the number of goals scored, provided two more markers to run his season total to 31.

Neither team managed to score in the first period, and the second stanza ended in a 1-1 tie. Each team had 12 shots at the goal in that frame, and each connected once. Howe's shot was the successful one for Detroit, and Gus Bodnar did it for the Hawks while Detroit was one man short.

Then in the third period Al Dewsbury of the Hawks took a pass from Jimmy Peters and placed 5,782 fans by putting the home team ahead. Four minutes later, Metro Prystay evened things up for Detroit by taking a pass from Chicago goalie Harry Lumley.

Howe came through again at 11:54 when he turned a pass from Ted Lindsay into the winning goal. The Wings spent the rest of the game successfully protecting the lead.

The win added a full two points to the Detroit club's league lead because the Montreal Canadiens topped second-place Toronto, 3-1.

Bomber Joe Louis Won't Fight Again; Only Exhibitions

NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Louis, unbeaten king of the heavy-weight fighters for 12 years, has fought his last fight.

The one-time Brown Bomber announced last night on his arrival from Los Angeles that he is through with fighting except for exhibitions.

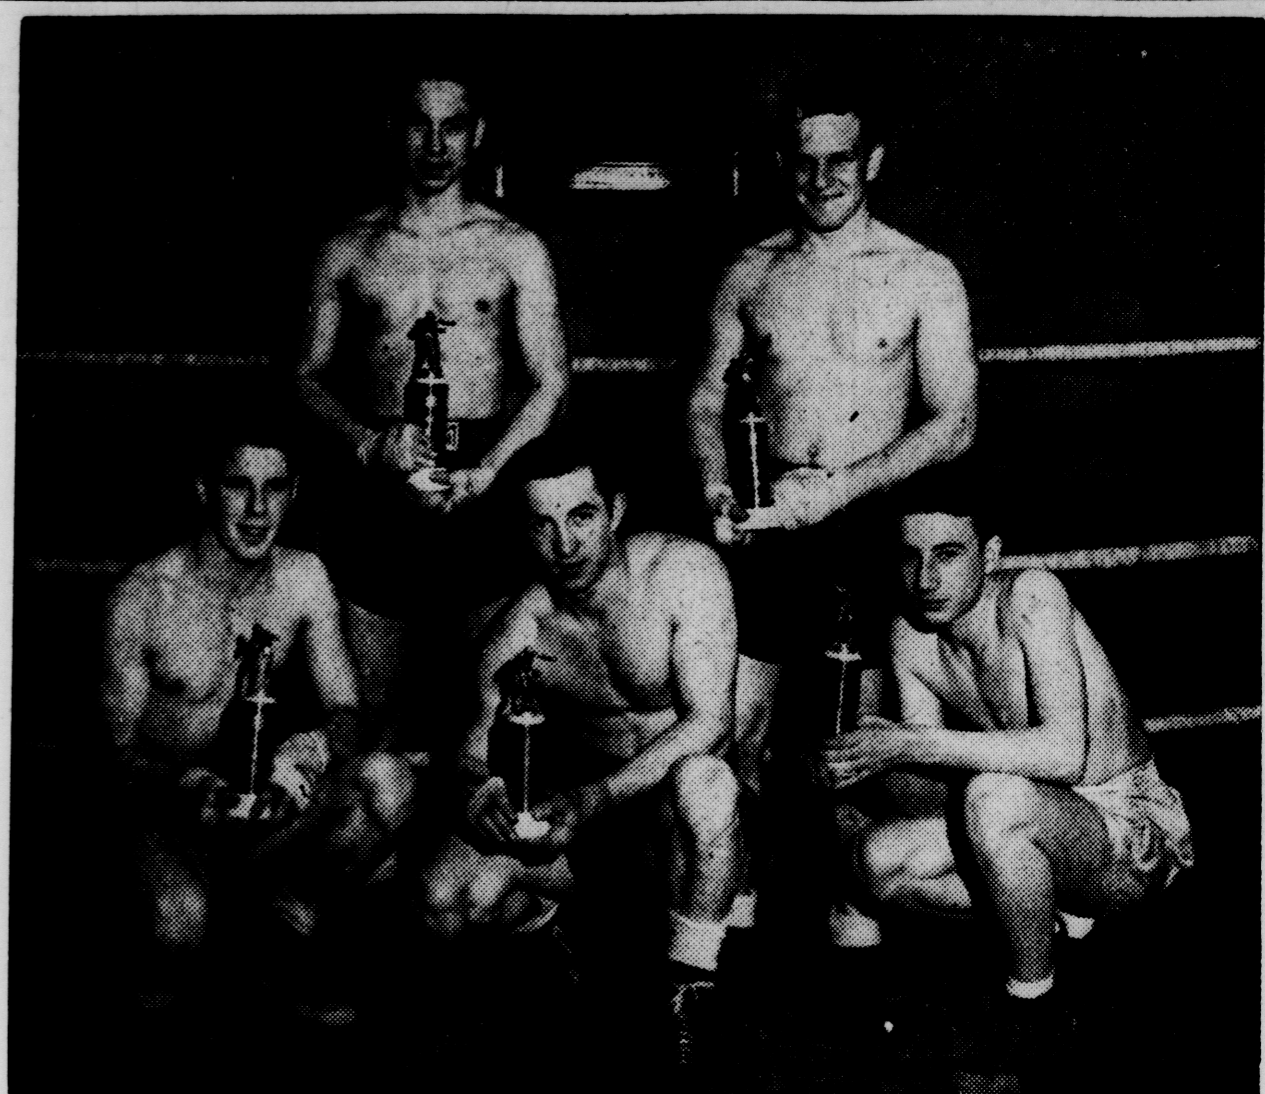

Asked when he had made up his mind to definitely retire Louis replied: "I made up my mind when I was knocked out by Rocky Marciano." That was last Oct. 26 when Joe took the count for the second time in his career. The other knockout was by Max Schmeling before Louis became champion.

Lions Sign Contract For Exhibition Games

DETROIT—(AP)—The Detroit Lions have made an impressive start in scheduling the first of their series of pro football exhibition games for next fall.

Negotiations were completed yesterday for a game with the Washington Redskins to be played Sept. 20 in Owen Stadium on the Oklahoma University campus at Norman, Okla. The stadium seats 60,000.

General Manager Nick Kerbawy said a three-year contract has been signed with the publishers of the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times for the exhibition games. The contract has an option for a three-year extension.

Detroit Fans Wonder If Club Won Or Lost In Veeck Trade

By HARRY STAPLER

DETROIT — (AP)—Did the Detroit Tigers gain or lose in their seven-player deal with that master trader of baseball—Bill Veeck?

That's the question most discussed today among baseball fans in Michigan.

You'll find supporters for both sides as fans argue the trade that sent pitcher Bob Cain, first baseman Dick Kryhoski and pitcher Gene Bearden to Veeck's St. Louis Browns.

Pitcher Given Up

In return the Tigers got catcher Matt Batts, outfielder Cliff Mape, first baseman Ben Taylor and pitcher Dick Littlefield.

Actually the key men in deal were Cain and Batts.

The Tigers gave up a promising young pitcher to get a catcher they figured they must have in order to be contenders.

Detroit General Manager Charlie Gehringer figured the Tigers could afford to give up a pitcher of Cain's caliber, since the Tiger staff shapes up as fairly good now that Art Houtteman is out of the army.

Batts first broke in with the Boston Red Sox in 1947 and hit .500, .314 and .242 while playing only part time.

In 1950 he became a regular and batted .273 and hit four home runs. In 1951 he batted .285 while playing 11 games for Boston and 79 for the Browns. He hit five home runs.

First Base Weakest

With Frank House awaiting a draft call, the Tigers' catching staff will include, Batts, Swift and Ginsberg—unless one of them is traded.

The Tigers' weakest spot now becomes first base without a doubt. With Kryhoski gone, veteran Don Kolloway, rookie Ralph Atkins, and newly-acquired Taylor remain.

Gehringer will likely try to swing a deal for a power-hitting first baseman. Last year Kolloway batted .255, Taylor .258 and Atkins .278 with Little Rock. None were potent in driving in runs.

Mape, a left-handed batter who hit .262 with the New York Yankees and St. Louis last year, is expected to give the Tigers some reserve outfield strength.

Littlefield, a left-handed batter by wildness, is only 25 years old and a few seasons back was a red hot minor league prospect.

Three of the new Tigers—Batts, Littlefield and Taylor—had already signed their contracts.

Meanwhile five other Tigers returned their signed contracts yesterday to bring 25 of the 35 players into the fold.

Hoot Evers, the lanky outfielder who was the big holdout last season, headed the list. He reportedly took a large cut in his 1951 salary of $34,000.

Also signing were outfielders George Lochen and Russ Sullivan and pitchers Dick Marlowe and Wayne McLeland.

Repeaters Wear Boxing Crowns

DETROIT—(AP)—Four repeaters and four newcomers were the Detroit Golden Gloves crowns to day.

One of the winners emerging from the battles of young amateur boxers here last night was Dick Cassidy, who won the 118-pound class title in 1950, lost it last year and got it back with a second-round knockout of Jerry Wells.

Three 1951 champs made it two in a row.

Ardell Dukes, 17-year-old featherweight, was knocked down in the first round by George Arnott, but got up to win a decision. Heavyweight Herbert Ellison, a semi-finalist last year in the tournament of champions in Chicago, scored a knockout over Elisha Hunter at 1:19 of the second round.

The other second year champion is lightweight John Barnes, who found opposition rough but took a decision from Rayford Mattison.

The roster of winners also includes Joe Willie de Myers, in the 112-pound class, T. W. Wilson in the 147-pound, Clares Coleman in the 160-pound and Len Richards in the 175-pound.

The Detroit winners and runners-up will battle winners and second place finishers from the recent Grand Rapids championships at the state fairgrounds coliseum March 4. Winners in those tests will go to the National AAU finals in Boston.

Miss Wall And Golf Partner Defeated In Palm Beach Foursome

PALM BEACH, Fla. — (AP)—Last year's championship match will be played all over again today in the finals of the annual mixed foursomes golf tournament at the Everglades Club.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., and J. Wolcott Brown of Manassas, N. J., will meet Bee McWane of Birmingham, Ala., and Bob Sweeney of Palm Beach in the 18-hole final starting at 2:30 p. m.

Last year, the same teams advanced to the championship round and the McWane-Sweeney combination took a close 1 up decision.

Miss McWane and Sweeney, former British amateur champ, took a 1 up decision over Mary Agnes Well of Menominee, Mich., and Ted Bassett of Palm Beach.

Par-Buster Worsham At Head Of Field In $10,000 Texas Open

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — (AP)—Lew Worsham had the scent of his first tournament victory in a year today as he set out at the head of the field in the second round of the $10,000 Texas Open.

The man from Oakmont, Pa., led the field of par-busters with an eight-under 63 as they prepared for cutting down time in the tournament. Tonight the low 60 professionals and ties plus the 10 low amateurs will go into the final 36 holes scheduled tomorrow and Sunday.

The greatest par-smashing round in 2 years of Texas opens came yesterday as 70 players in the field of 169 shot rounds under regulation figures. Eighteen others equalled par.

The 6,400-yard Blackenridge Park course was a battered affair after the touring pros — and some home grown boys, too — got through with it.

Dark Norwegian Princess Opens Olympic Games

OSLO — (AP) — Princess Ragnild of Norway, slender, dark and 21, formally opened the sixth winter Olympic games in Bislett Stadium today.

The attractive ski-loving princess put the gigantic winter sports show on the road officially after a brilliant parade of competitors from 30 nations.

In an unusual departure from custom, the competition already was underway by the time the pomp and ceremony of the regal opening show was staged in the 90,000 seat stadium.

Aglow With Flags

The Oslo games, the biggest winter sports carnival ever held, have drawn 1,178 competitors and officials. But not all of them were on hand for the official opening.

Because of the distance none of the competitors in the men's giant slalom were able to attend the show. The stadium, located in the heart of the Norwegian capital, is famous both as a track and field grounds and as a speed skating track.

Today it was aglow with the flags of Olympic nations and the gay uniforms of the contestants stood out against the thin cover of snow.

As a climax to the ceremonies, a blonde Norwegian skier entered the stadium carrying the Olympic torch, which had been lighted at Moregdal, Shrine of Modern Skiing, and set ablaze the Olympic fire that will burn throughout the games.

Carried 170 Miles

The torch has been carried 170 miles by a ski relay of 100 men.

Torbjorn Falkanger, Norway's champion ski jumper and favorite to win the Olympic gold medal, took this Olympic oath on behalf of all contestants:

"We swear that we will take part in the Olympic games in fair competition, respecting regulations which govern them and with a desire to participate in the true spirit of sportsmanship for the honor of our countries and for the glory of sport."

The athletes paraded into the stadium with the nations arranged alphabetically, according to the Norwegian language in this order:

Greece, Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Bulgaria, Canada, Chile, Denmark, United States, Finland, France, Iceland, Italy, Japan, Yugoslavia, Lebanon, Netherlands, New Zealand, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Spain, Great Britain, Switzerland, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Hungary, Austria and Norway.

Norway was last because it is the host country.

The United States team, as usual, wore white jackets, white caps and blue pants. The jackets bore red, white and blue stripes on the arms.

Jim Bickford, veteran bobsledder and oldest member of the U. S. team, marched at the front, carrying the American flag.

Whiz Gal May Collect More Medals For U. S. In Daring Ski Runs

By HARVEY HUDSON

NOREFJELL, Norway—Mrs. Andrea M. Lawrence, who doesn't really care about winning and skis only to have fun, may turn out to be the winningest athlete in the 1952 winter Olympic games.

"Andy", 19-year-old Rutland, Vt., whiz gal, yesterday won the first gold medal in the games. She also is favorite to win a second and could cop a third.

Mrs. Lawrence, who has been skiing since she was four and competed in her first Olympics at the age of 15, won the women's giant slalom, skipping across the finish line into the arms of her 21-year-old husband, David. As soon as she recovered her breath she said:

"Gee, that was great."

That was a slight variation of her usual first after race comment. Her favorite expression is:

"Gee, that was fun."

Andy's use of the word "great" was accurate. Her time of two minutes, 6.8 seconds was two and two-tenths seconds better than that of the second place runner—Dagmar Rom of Austria. And it was 4.9 seconds faster than the time made by Catherine Rodolph of

Spartan Cagers Shoot For That .500 Mark In Madison Saturday

EAST LANSING—(AP)—Michigan State will be shooting again for the elusive .500 mark in the Western Conference basketball standings against Wisconsin at Madison Saturday night.

The Spartans, with a four and five won and lost record, were put into the red in Big Ten play by Illinois Monday night. Illinois won 84-62.

Wisconsin, with a two and five won and lost record in the conference will be out to snap a three game losing streak. Abe Nicholas, high scoring guard, is the most potent offensive threat.

Michigan State handcuffed Wisconsin 50-39 in an earlier meeting but the Spartans have run up against a jinx this year in attempting repeat victories.

MSC beat both Notre Dame and Northwestern the first time out and then lost the return engagement. This will be Michigan State's last chance to sweep a two game series this season.

Trout Season Opener Loses Its Monopoly Under New Fish Laws

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING—(AP)—This is the year that Michigan's new liberalized fishing seasons go into effect and the opening of the trout season loses its monopoly on the last Saturday in April.

For many, many years the beginning of the glorious spring and summer seasons in the outdoors was heralded by the opening of the trout season.

Thus it came to be a tradition that the trout streams and lakes were crowded with hordes of people, many of whom never went trout fishing again until the next spring.

Other Attractions

Maybe half of them were serious trout fishermen. In fact, it got to the point that the out and out trout fisherman waited for a week or two before going out for the first time themselves.

This crowding and heavy pressure on the streams on the opening weekend became a matter of concern, not only for trout fishermen but also the conservation department fish researchers.

They have been saying for some time that Michigan trout waters can't stand indefinitely all the fishing they have been getting.

The conservation department recommend delaying the trout opening a couple of weeks and opening the bluegill, pike, walleye and muskellunge seasons at the same time.

The legislature wouldn't go for delaying the trout season opening but they were receptive to opening the other seasons at the same time.

So this year, for the first time, there will be other attractions for the last Saturday in April.

Besides trout, the popular bluegills, which thrive all over the state, and the scrappy pike, mus-

A Youth for Christ Rally will be held at Bethel Free Church Saturday evening, Feb. 16, at 7:30 with the Rev. Floyd Ankerberg, who is conducting special meetings at Calvary Church, Escanaba, the main speaker.

The meeting will be in charge of David Nelson, newly elected president of the Youth for Christ Council. The Rev. Arden W. Finke, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, Marquette, will be song leader.

The program is:

Congregational singing.

Trio — Mrs. Donald Nelson, Charlene Nelson, Leone Larson.

Testimony by Miss Nancy Oman, former member of God's Invasion Army.

Instrumental number — Salvation Army String Band.

Solo — Rev. Arden W. Finke.

Address — Rev. Ankerberg.

The Rev. Ankerberg is an internationally traveled Youth for Christ evangelist. He has conducted meetings in practically all European countries and in North Africa, and in 1950 he resigned his pastorate in Chicago to go into evangelistic work with the Youth for Christ movement. This movement now is holding 2,000 rallies in 76 countries all over the world.

The evangelist who has been active in music and preaching since early youth is a graduate of Northern Baptist Seminary in Chicago.

Jones Almost Sure Smear Play Winner

Cecil Jones smear team continued its winning ways and stretched its lead in the Masonic smear tournament to 65 points in this week's play. Jones now leads Ken Ames second place team 693 to 628 with only one more round of play left, so he is virtually assured of winning the event.

Other scores are Louis Bizeau 604, Swan Widar 596, Eugene Lancel 594, Walter HoHughton 577, Elmer Peterson 551, George Buckmiller 532, Erick Apelgren 507 and Maurice Buckmiller 506.

Jones had the evenings' high with 73 and George Buckmiller low with 49.

The final round of play will be next Wednesday, Feb. 20. The windup banquet will be held on Thursday, Feb. 28 at 6:30 in the Masonic hall.

Bake Sale—The Ladies' Aid of the Mission Covenant Church will hold a bake sale on Saturday afternoon at Siebert's Hardware. Selling will start at one.

Eighty-three per cent of American automobiles are used each winter week for work, shopping or both, the Pollitz automobile survey discovered. Work occupies 65 per cent of the cars, shopping 48 per cent.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Wilfred LaFave who died one year ago, February 14, 1951. Peacefully sleeping, resting at last.

The World's weary troubles and trials are past, In silence she suffered, in patience she bore, Till God called her home to suffer no more.

Sadly missed by Wilfred LaFave and sons

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our husband, father and grandfather, Emil Strom who passed away February 15, 1949. You stand upon the Mount of God With sunlight in your soul, You hear the storms in earth, You hear the thunder roll, But all is calm with thee and God

Above these glorious skies: And to the height on which you stand

No storms or troubles rise, Precious are memories, as we travel on

Waiting to see again, that loved one gone.

No one knows our deep regret, But we remember when others forget.

Sadly missed by Mrs. Anna Strom and family and grandchildren

Winter Sports Carnival At Park This Weekend

Opening events in Gladstone's Winter Sports Carnival are to be held at the Sports Park on the Days River Saturday afternoon.

They will consist of several ski events for boys. One will be a flat one mile race, another a downhill event and a third the slalom.

Saturday night the Queen's ball will be held at the high school and arrangements have been made for the coronation of Queen Mary Ann Hoffmann. Attending her will be the court composed of Sue D'Amour, Pat Hanson, Theresa Harris, Kay DeHooghe, Marlene Johnson and Janet Sinclair.

On Sunday afternoon the final events will be held at the park. These include the Swedish Club race, a Lions club ladies one mile event, a men's two-mile open, a one-mile event for girls 14 or under, a slalom race and the jumping.

Flat races are in charge of a committee headed by H. J. Skogquist, while Jack Manning, Escanaba, is handling the jumping.

In the latter there will be both junior and senior events with three prizes in each. There also will be a prize for the longest standing jump.

Ninety Police Attend Session

About 90 police officers from all over Upper Michigan attended the Law Enforcement association meeting held here yesterday at the Legion hall.

Dr. C. W. Muehlberger, Lansing, director of the Michigan State Crime Laboratory, was the principal speaker and he presented some interesting and authoritative information on the subject of evidence, advising officers in its detection, preservation and presentation.

He pointed out to the body that all institutions of the state, hospital or school, cooperate with the crime laboratory in its work.

PTA Plans Card Party March 3

The Parent-Teachers association is planning a card party for the evening of Monday, March 3, in the high school gymnasium.

Bridge, canasta, five hundred, smear and other games will be played.

Reservations must be made by Feb. 29 and persons sponsoring tables should call either Mrs. William Sepic, No. 9-1723, or Mrs. Don Grenfell, No. 9-5470.

Each sponsor will furnish table, cloth, cards and lunch service.

Mrs. Jack Shiner is chairman of the committee in charge. Mrs. Robert Hupy is on the prize committee.

Money derived is to be placed in the association fund for the purchase of library books.

3 Directors To Be Named By CC

Ballots bearing the names of the eight nominees for the three places on the board of directors of the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce have been forwarded to all members of the organization by the Rev. Theophil Hoffmann, the secretary.

Each member has the privilege of voting for not more than three and ballots are to be returned to the office of the secretary not later than noon on Monday, Feb. 18.

Voting for more than three will invalidate the ballot.

Nominees are H. T. Brewer, O'Neil D'Amour, R. A. Hale, Robert Hupy, Dr. George Kelly, Rex Stowe, Walter Tang and John P. Vogt.

Retiring directors are Wallace Cameron, Walter Lied, R. A. Watson, S. R. Venne and H. J. Skogquist.

Newsman Attack King George VI Buried In Sorrowful Grandeur

MSC Press Ban

EAST LANSING — (AP)—Michigan newspapers felt they had a foot in the door today in their effort to penetrate the "closed-to-the-press" sessions of the governing body of Michigan State College.

A delegation from the Michigan Press Association met yesterday with the state board of agriculture MSC governing body. MPA members had complained that the board and the regents of the University of Michigan bodies were prime examples of Michigan agencies which exert press barriers.

"It was a very harmonious meeting," said Kenneth R. West, managing editor of the Lansing State Journal and chairman of the committee of newspaper editors and publishers.

"We tried to stress the fact that the newspaper fraternity should be trusted and could be trusted to give responsible treatment to such matters."

Representatives of the Associated Press, the United Press and the Detroit Free Press were refused admission at the MSC board business meeting yesterday morning.

News of the meetings of the two boards currently comes from their public relations offices.

Americans Second In Bobsledding Race Down Frogersteren

OSLO — (AP)—Germany's world champion bobsledder, Andreas Ostler, and a lean, 24-year-old Norwegian skier named Stein Eriksen scored gold medal victories in the sixth winter Olympic Games today but America continued to show early strength.

The United States' No. 1 bobsled, piloted by Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N. Y., finished second to Ostler's blazing "Cognac" as the last two of four runs were made down Frogersteren's icy, treacherous slopes.

The No. 2 U. S. entry, guided by Fred Fouture Jr., of Lake Placid, finished seventh in the death-defying competition among 18 of the world's greatest sledgers.

Meanwhile, Brooks Dodge, a 22-year-old Dartmouth undergraduate, scored a tie for sixth in the men's giant slalom ski race at Norefjell, won by the blond, handsome Eriksen in the good time of two minutes, 25 seconds.

U. S. weather maps are prepared from information obtained by telegraph and radio from hundreds of weather stations in the United States, Canada and other points.

Judicial Circuit Split Approved

LANSING — (AP)—A bill to split the Upper Peninsula's 25th Judicial District passed the House by a 57 to 12 vote today.

The measure, which goes to the Senate, would leave Marquette and Delta counties as the 25th circuit under the present judge, Glenn W. Jackson.

Menominee, Iron and Dickinson counties would be removed and designated the 41st Judicial Circuit.

In Debate, the measure was opposed by Rep. Einar Erlandsen (D-Escanaba), who contended that action to rearrange circuits within the Peninsula should await a survey of the entire region and a possible reshuffling of all Upper Peninsula circuits.

Reps. James Goulette (R-Iron Mountain) and Carl G. Lindquist (R-Iron River), sponsors of the bill, said action was needed immediately because the 25th was the largest circuit in the state and that Judge Jackson was severely overworked.

Minority Getting Nasty In Lansing

utes and to extend full unemployment compensation to Great Lakes sailors were postponed until Wednesday.

After a lengthy squabble, the House passed and sent to the Senate a measure forbidding optometrists to advertise and tightening penalties for unethical practice. The vote was 58-28.

Liquor Tax Proposed
Opponents said they feared the measure would permit higher prices for glasses. The bill was opposed by the Michigan Chain Store Bureau and a group of optometrists who practice in stores.

The chamber scheduled debate on a bill to replace the three per cent sales tax on liquor with a specific three per cent tax. This would take some $3,000,000 from the sales tax diversion and channel it into the state general fund.

Debate on legislation to put into effect the program of a governor's committee and a special legislative committee on sex deviation was put over to Tuesday.

Family Of Four Dies In Tenement Blaze At Somerville, Mass.

SOMERVILLE, Mass. — (AP)—A family of four—the parents and two children they apparently tried to save—perished last night in a fire that damaged four tenement buildings.

The body of Anthony Carcarro, 52, was found with that of his daughter, Jeanette, 2½, clutched in his arms.

Mrs. Eva Carcarro, 35, was found dead near the body of a son, Richard, 5.

Firemen said Carcarro tried to flee with his daughter through a passageway connecting his own apartment with an adjoining building.

The bodies of Mrs. Carcarro and the son were found in their own apartment.

Richard McDevitt, 47, fireman, suffered burns on 50 percent of his body.

Some 30 persons, many of them children in nightclothes, were made homeless by the general alarm fire in sub-freezing temperature.

None had time to save any belongings.

White Pine Project Boom Given Study

CHICAGO — (AP)—Dozens of officials and businessmen from Ontonagon, Mich., arrived here today looking for the answers to community problems posed by White Pine mine developments.

The huge copper mining project, to be financed by a $57 million loan from the RFC, is expected to double the 2,290 population of the Upper Peninsula community within a year and that of Ontonagon county within three years.

Housing will be the primary problem accompanying the population rise, according to Lawrence P. Walsh, Ontonagon attorney who is commissioner of the Michigan Department of Economic Development and chairman of the group here. But other problems, said Walsh, will be schools, police and fire protection, highways, railroads and hospital service.

The group will confer in Chicago with officials of the Copper Range Co., sponsor of the mining project; Pace and Associates, in charge of planning, and the Turner Construction Co., New York, which will do all the building.

Rep. John Bennett (R-Mich.) also will attend the conference.

Walsh said the $57 million RFC loan, which is expected to be signed shortly, is the largest single loan made since the end of World War II and the largest ever in Upper Michigan.

The party from Ontonagon, which wants to find out what part it is expected to take, included:

Letters To The Editor

FOR MODERN SCHOOLS
Dear Editor:

As former members of the Escanaba Board of Education, and knowing some of the problems, first-hand, that confront the present Board, we thought that the general public might be interested in our personal reactions to the proposed bond issue and what it means to our school system and city.

During the years spent on the Board of Education, the condition of the Barr school, its heating plant and general obsolescence were of constant concern to Board members. Of course, this condition has not improved. As a matter of fact, the school executives and staff have done a marvelous job to keep it in a usable condition. In the first place, it is too small for the number of students who are attending it, and it looks as if the attendance from now on will increase quite rapidly.

The high school building has outlived its usefulness as a high school building. For some years the school authorities have been concerned about the crowded condition of this building, particularly when great distances have to be traveled from one classroom to another through the crowded corridors.

We feel that this is an opportune time for a new building program in order that we may keep our schools up to date and in good condition so that we may be proud of them. This building program would be possible through the funds which have been made available from the estate of Catherine Bonifas and the proceeds of the proposed bond issue.

Let us hope that the citizens of this community will continue to give their support to our local school authorities by voting on Monday, February 18.

WE NEED SCHOOLS NOW

Dear Editor:

We thought the Klux Klan operated in the Deep South, but since the Protective Taxpayer's Association is hiding behind pillow cases, it is obvious that the Klan's technique has crossed the Straights of Mackinac—on a fast ferry.

Until now the bond issues have been discussed by citizens who readily identified themselves. Since the modest members of the above organization are so prophetic, it's no wonder they hide behind a veil of anonymity to conjure when the moon is full.

We have learned the facts. We need schools NOW. GOD BLESS AMERICA.

Signed:
Barr Basement Mothers, Inc.
June Hanson, Chairman.

SCHOOLS ARE ESSENTIAL

Dear Editor:

The school bond issue boils down to a few fundamental decisions. First, public schools are an essential and integral part of our community. We could no more do without them than we could do without grocery stores or a pure water supply.

The question is not "Shall we have schools?" but "Shall we have good schools?" Second, we must and shall have new schools sometime to replace the present ones. These cannot last indefinitely.

The only admissible questions in the present issue are these: Do we need schools right now? Are we getting the best schools for our money? Would any other later time be more favorable as far as meeting our needs, providing lower building costs, and getting more favorable bond rates are concerned? Any other questions are spurious and only cloud the real issues.

The answers to the real questions have been given conclusively.
